

Holy Angels Home

Drive To Aid Teenage Girls

The Holy Angels Home will accept any youngster whose needs can be met by the training offered.

A community agency of this kind stands in need of community support, not only of financial help, but also of understanding, sympathy and participation. That such community support may be most effective, the Holy Angels Guild has been formed, its purpose, therefore, is to help in the generous spirit of true Christian charity. "It offers financial aid in meeting the material needs that the program requires; it makes possible the social and recreational projects which are a necessary part of the treatment; and it backs up by friendly interest, the dedicated service of those who are actively carrying on the work."

"Membership in the guild is a concrete evidence of the love of those littlest members of the flock who are so dear to the Heart of the Good Shepherd."

Captains include: the Messengers Lynn French, Vermin E. Hallmark, William Foley, C. J. McLaughlin, Joseph Oliver, Glen Parkins, William Ryan and William G. Wagner. The fund-raising program is directed by several members. They will seek new members and renewal of the Congregation of our Lady of Charity of the Refuge.

The Sisters care for teenage girls who are socially upset and unable to lead a normal life in the community. This is usually a temporary condition and can be overcome through positive social adjustment and character training.

Holy Angels receive teenage girls who need treatment on the line of social formation. As the name "Home" implies, the primary emphasis is on the fundamental social experience which is found in family living and which for various reasons they have lacked.

These girls are primarily accepted for
