

Progress Reported At Fair Haven

A resume of progress made during 1963 at the new St. Jude's chapel in Fair Haven has recently been compiled. The overcrowding of St. Thomas church in Red Creek during summer months pointed up the need for a local place of worship for hundreds of Catholics and campers.

During the late summer of 1962, with the cooperation of Rebekah Lodge, IOOF, 459 and crews of volunteer helpers, the building on the corner of Main St. and Short Cut Rd. was utilized for Sunday Mass.

Immediately upon its becoming available, more than 500 worshippers were served at this makeshift chapel.

In January, 1963, the St. Thomas Catholic Church Corp. of Red Creek purchased this building from the Rebekah Lodge. Services of an architect, Philip Winkler of Rochester and an attorney, Edward Knecht of Cairo, were obtained and work was begun by the Gifford Construction Co. of Weedsport and local help.

Following purchase, major renovations were made. Among these was the replacement of the stucco exterior by attractive grey aluminum cladding insulating siding. Enclosing the front porch and removing interior partitions resulted in a nave 40 x 80 feet to accommodate over 500 persons. Up to the present time, over $14,000 has been expended and spent on the building.

To date there have been over 30 families participating in the actual work of the chapel. Many anonymous donations have been received, making this prominent Fair Haven building a credit to the village.

The first work party was organized in May, 1963, with the first Mass of the summer season held on June 23, 1963. A total of 12 Sunday worship services were celebrated during the summer with an average of 500 persons at each service, proving the need.

Of noteworthy interest is the historical fact that 40 years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Van Speybroeck were the first Catholics in Fair Haven. Now there are 30 families in the area and many summer parishioners to be served.

BISHOP KEARNEY has designated the building as St. Jude's chapel. On July 4, 1963, Father Heindl, the pastor, solemnly blessed the chapel and later that day, the Fair Haven American Legion presented the national colors to the chapel in a public parade ceremony. Father Heindl, in his uniform as 98th Division Reserve chaplain, received the colors.

Trustees of St. Thomas Church, the mother church, are Joseph Albano and Joseph Bessett. Acting trustees of St. Jude's chapel are Dwight Grant, Robert Martin, Clement Squires and Harry VanSpeybroeck.

Stained glass windows are being designed as memorials by donors and are being installed. A major undertaking this spring will be the beautifying of interior rooms by redecorating and interior painting. Progress continues well ahead of schedule toward completion of the planned program.

It is hoped and planned that the needs of local residents and vacationers will continue to be served during summer seasons by St. Jude's chapel of Fair Haven thanks to village pride and church-community cooperation.

Funeral Directors Issue Stand On Proposed Bill

"We are thoroughly in agreement with the bill proposed by Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz requiring funeral directors to furnish a written statement showing the price of the funeral and an itemized list of the services and merchandise to be furnished for such price and a statement of the cash advances and expenditures to be advanced," said Donald L. McCabe of Warsaw, N.Y., president of the New York State Funeral Directors Association, today.

"Immediately after Mr. Lefkowitz announced in November that he was initiating an inquiry into funeral services, our association offered its fullest cooperation. We have met with his staff several times since. Many of our members have voluntarily opened their books and records to them.

"We hope that the Attorney General's investigation will find little, if any, excess or wrongdoing, but whatever his inquiry discloses, he will find us ready to cooperate in correcting any violation of law or good professional conduct, and in bringing any willful wrongdoers to task."

Every well-regulated funeral establishment keeps a detailed record of all funeral arrangements. There is no reason in the ordinary situation why the funeral director should not furnish a copy as the Attorney General's bill requires. There are exceptions — as when arrangements are made on the telephone and particularly with people located at a distance. In such cases, arrangements should be confirmed in writing at the earliest opportunity.

FOLLOWING is a statement of Mr. McCabe:

"The rules of professional conduct of our association require a clear and definite understanding that wherever possible the agreement with clients should be reduced to a written memorandum. Many years ago, our membership adopted funeral arrangement forms setting forth in full detail the costs, services and merchandise involved. Since then, we have been urging the public to expect a detailed memorandum of the arrangements.

RECENTLY ELECTED officers of the Mothers Guild of Bishop Kearney High School are Mrs. Evord Knights, Mrs. Richard Lovell, Mrs. Richard Coleman, Mrs. Paul O'Ho, Mrs. Michael Critelli, and Mrs. Joseph Walla.

34 Nazareth Students To Make Europe Tour

Thirty-four students and three Nazareth College faculty members will visit Europe this summer in the first such tour ever arranged by the college.

In honor of the 400th anniversary of Shakespeare's birth. Other stops planned are: the Hague and Amsterdam in Holland; Bonn, capital of West Germany; Heidelberg, Lucerne and through the Austrian Alps to the site of the 1964 Winter Olympic games, Innsbruck, Austria.

The final leg of the tour will include stops at Pisa, Genoa, Nice, Lourdes and, finally, a four-day visit in Paris.

THE GROUP will arrive in Southampton, England and proceed to London where they will visit Buckingham Palace, Westminster Abbey, and the House of Parliament in addition to attending a Shakespearean play.

Take The Lid Off Racial Problem A Woman's Job

A Rochester priest told the Monroe County Council of Catholic Women this week that the solution of the race problem locally depended in a special way on the women of Rochester. Rev. Robert Kreckel said that in the North the character of "America's perennial problem" had moved past the first barriers (voting rights, service in hotels, etc.) to the crucial area of neighborhoods.

"It is in the neighborhood where women exert the primary influence," he said.

Their concern for their children, their homes and their schools makes them "the real barometer of public opinion in these crucial areas."

Father Kreckel, moderator of the Rochester Catholic Interracial Council, challenged his hearers to "take the lid off Negro in Rochester."

Explaining his phrase, he said that the great majority of Negroes in Rochester are bottled up in two crowded areas of the city. Catholic women should strive to create a climate of opinion which would open up housing opportunities in a fair way.

"This is a moral problem — the will of God is involved and the solution calls for the widest spread justice and charity," he stressed.

Justice will meet the needs of the upper-class and middle-class Negro, who is in a position to move into the neighborhood he prefers — if he has a fair chance, he went on.

At the same meeting, held in Sacred Heart parish hall, Mrs. Joseph Palo, MCC president, announced that the Council was inaugurating a program of interracial "Home Visits" to begin in April. It will be a parallel effort to the same program begun recently by the Catholic Interracial Council. Sponsorship of the program by the MCC will make the opportunity available to any Catholic woman who is a member of an affiliated group.

Mrs. Arthur Farren will be chairman of the "Home Visits" program. Women interested in participating in such home visits were asked to call Mrs. Farren at FA 8-4886 for information.

Filial homage was paid by the faithful to the new Holy Father, Pius XII with earnest prayers for his intention at a special Pontifical Mass celebrated by Bishop Kearney in Sacred Heart Pro-Cathedral. Archbishop Thomas F. Healy in the sermon asked prayers "that God will bless the Vicar on earth."

Bishop Kearney and Rev. Daniel A. Lord, S.J., national socially leader from St. Louis, Mo., were listed to lend prestige to the 10th Anniversary Day of DeSales High School Sociality, Geneva.

"The key to many of the problems facing society today is the Living Wage," the Rev. Thomas D. O'Connor, C.M., of Niagara University said in the third Memorial Lecture on Encyclicals of Pope Pius XI at Columbus Civic Center.

Catholic U. Role To 'Reconcile'

Rome — (RNS) — Pope Paul VI, addressing teachers and students at the Pontifical Gregorian University here, stressed that a major task of a university is to reconcile modern knowledge with the great Church traditions of the past.

Another main task of church universities, he said, is to instill in students "obedience to the teaching of the Church and her Doctors, the first of which was St. Thomas-Aquinas."

Poetry Contest Winners Listed

FEAN YAN—Winners in the Poetry Contest sponsored by the National Catholic Daughters of America who participated from the 6th, 7th and 8th grades of St. Michael School, Peñon, are announced today.

Sixteen pupils participated as contestants.

Winners in the 6th grade were: First prize, Maureen Short, second prize, Penelope Olsen; third prize, Marian Crippen; 7th and 8th grades: First prize, Karen Powers; second prize, Lisa Finnegan; third prize, Suzanne Boucher.

The Misses Carrie and Mildred Adams and Mrs. Robert LeGault of Court St. Michael 1173, C.D.A. were judges.

Winning poems will be sent to the State Chairman of Education in the C.D.A. to compete with poems submitted by Catholic schools throughout New York State.

The winners in the state contest will be entered in the national competition.

Chili-Miss Wins Latin Contest

Jennifer A. Reed, seventeen-year-old senior at Churchville Chili High School and one of Monroe County's top five New York State Regents scholarship winners, took first honors in St. Andrew's Seminary contest to translate President Kennedy's inaugural address into Latin.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Reed, 10 Ventura Road, in suburban Rochester.

Miss Reed was one of 40 entrants from 10 high schools in the contest. Judges were Miss Helen Durbin, Madison High School; Miss Mary Leinberger, Sacred Heart Academy; and Sister Mary Cyprian, Our Lady of Mercy High School.

The young scholar plans to be a college teacher after her college studies.

Appliance Dealers See Fair Weather

Instant sunshine can be a reality when it comes to clothes drying if you heed the advice of local appliance dealers and invest in an automatic clothes dryer.

A wide assortment of name brands are available in both gas and electric models that allow you to dry clothes no matter what the weather outside, even at night. Dealers point out that there is no fading as with sunlight and that clothes come out of your dryer softer and fluffier requiring far less ironing because there is no stiffness and harshness that is often present in line drying.

Churches Abet Segregation

Cleveland—(NC)—Two chief speakers agreed that churches have failed to form a public conscience on the moral issue of racial discrimination in addresses at a two-day Conference on Religion and Race here.

Dan W. Dodson, director of New York University's center for human relations and community studies, said the most sensitive point in the racial crisis today is in the field of education.

He warned churches against permitting their schools to become a haven for refugees from public education who, mainly, are fleeing from racial integration of classrooms. He said too many white parents are making a child's academic progress a "class symbol of social status."
