Corning Area Squires Hear Talk On Cancer

Corning—Dr. Richard A. O'Brien, a past president of the local American Cancer Society, was guest speaker at a communion-dinner program of the Columbian Squires. Members of the organization, sponsored by the Knights of Columbus for boys 13-18 years of age, attended 8:15 Mass at St. Mary's Church, then held a dinner at Tarantelli's restaurant.

General arrangements were made for the 20 participating by W. W. Babcock, past Grand Knight of the K. of C. and Robert Young, the March activities chairman.

CHIEF ADULT counselor for the unit is George William Russell, with Daniel Gehl heading the unit as chief squire.

Dr. O'Brien spoke on "Cigarettes and Lung Cancer," stating that tobacco is a habit forming drug, that poison from its use adds to the poisoning of body cells, which in turn multiply, form tumors, with these tumors many times leading to cancer.

"If smoking is necessary," Dr. O'Brien said, "then the smoking of a pipe or cigar is preferable from a health viewpoint," he reported.

Aiding in arrangements for the Columbian Squires were Robert Young Jr., his brother, Paul, Richard Barker and Gordon Martusio.

A guest at the dinner was George Vergamini, Grand Knight of the local Council.

a KODAK report to the community

Kodak, like other companies, reports to its share owners at regular intervals. Our Annual Report for 1963 has just been mailed to them. Since Rochester is our home city, we wish to keep the people of this community up-to-date on the company's business, too.

In summary, the past year was one of progress. Sales and earnings were the highest to date. Sales of all U.S. units rose about 5 percent to $1,107 million, and net earnings were up about 3 percent to $144 million. These gains were reflected in higher dividends for shareholders and higher wage rates and a larger wage dividend for Kodak people.

The consistently fine work of Kodak men and women was a key to the year's advances. Vital support also was provided by other groups, including many suppliers, dealers, share-owners, and customers in the Rochester area.

We believe the company is in good condition for the current year. The upward trend in sales has continued in recent weeks, and, assuming the nation's economy moves ahead, we expect that Kodak's business will continue to advance in 1964.

New Products. Over 100 new and improved products, in almost every field of the company's business, were introduced in 1963. Among the most enthusiastically received by customers were the easy-to-load Mataromatic camera and Kodapak film cartridges.

Research and Development. Excellent progress was made by Kodak's scientific, engineering, and other technical groups in 1963. Their work gives promise of a continuing flow of useful and appealing new products in the months and years ahead.
