Dear Loretta Young

Trust and Tired

By MISS LORETTA YOUNG

"Trust Your Parents"

Dear Miss Young:

I am a girl thirteen years old and my sister is eleven. We both like to know if we are old enough to go to out-of-town baseball games on Friday nights. All my other friends go. I don't mind saying so, myself but I know my sister and I can be trusted.

Sincerely,
Trustworthy

Dear "Trustworthy":

Certainly! It sounds like a good, healthy, fun outing IF you went with a group that was properly chaperoned and with your parents' permission. Otherwise, forget it!

It is too much responsibility — too soon — for you two to even think of handling yourselves. I don't know how old your other friends are, but take it from me, be grateful that your parents love you enough not to allow you to be caught in a situation that is not only unbecoming to girls of your age but could be dangerous.

You are right to trust yourselves but trust your parents more — you won't be sorry.

Sincerely,
Loretta Young

Tired Wives

Dear Loretta Young:

I would appreciate your advice in this matter. I am a mother of three and working. My husband works part time but he won't help me around the house. I've got to take care of everything: shopping, washing, ironing, mending, cooking and sending the children to school clean. If I tell him to do some work around the house, he says he doesn't know how. I'm so tired when I come home from work that I could cry. Please tell me what to do. God bless you and thank you.

Sincerely,
Tired

Dear "Tired":

Cry. That's why the Good Lord gave us tears, to relieve tension, to save us from getting ulcers, etc. You know, it's possible that your husband doesn't realize how worn out you really are. Have you ever heard that "actions speak louder than words?" It is true.

Sincerely,
Loretta Young

Oh, For a Lift

Dear Loretta:

I am a 16 year old girl with a nice personality and a problem. A boy has been living next door for five eternal months and is going to a boy's school in town. Whenever I walk to school with my girlfriend he never walks with us, nor makes any attempt to get to know us. He said "hi" to us once and smiled. As a neighbor, he never offers me a lift in his jaloppy. I think we are attracted to each other but don't know how to show our interest. He is going back to his own town in about three months when he finishes school. How can I get acquainted with him before he wanders out of my life?

Sincerely,
Miss "Determined"

Dear "Miss Determined":

If, after five months of what probably seems to him like cool indifference (never so much as a courteous, neighborly "How are you today?"), I'm not surprised that all you got was "Hi" just once. Have you forgotten that we are supposed to treat others as we would like them to treat us? Being warm, friendly and considerate is the quickest way to make friends. The weather is a good subject to start with — then there's his jaloppy, his school. Does he participate in school activities? There are any number of subjects you could bring up that would interest him. Try being a good neighbor. It's considered good, Christian behavior.

Sincerely,
Loretta Young
