Fisher Graduates Told

'Produce for Church'

The 107 graduates of St. John Fisher College were told at their baccalaureate Mass they have a "duty to produce for the kingdom of God."

Giving the challenge was Father Richard Torney, chaplain to Catholic students at Cornell University.

The Fisher baccalaureate was held Sunday morning at the East Avenue school.

Father Torney said a Catholic college education was "not simply" to provide the graduate "by making a living" but to ready him "for an apostle's role."

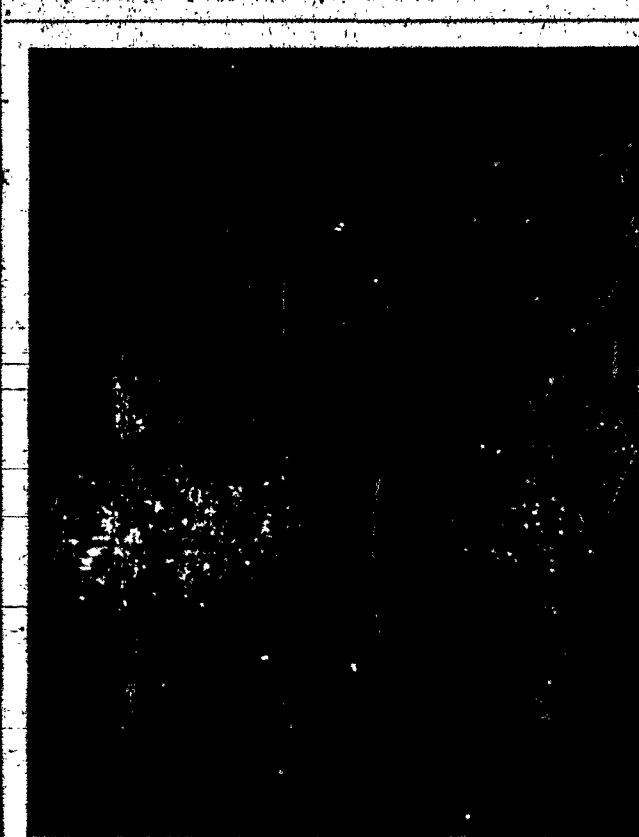

"If Christ is to speak in Washington or on Madison Avenue... if His justice and mercy are to be implanted in courts of law... if He is to be found in the laboratory or lecture hall... if His brand of honesty is to prevail in the trade mart... if His kind of purity is to glow in the love-affairs of our country... if God is to stay alive in our time, in our professions, in our cities and in our homes... He will live only in a people educated, dedicated Catholics will give Him their life," Father Torney stated.

He cited the Vatican Council's stress on "the layman's vocation" in the Church and President Kennedy's statement that "here on earth, God's work must truly be our own."

AT COMMENCEMENT rites Sunday afternoon three Fisher students were graduated magna cum laude. They are Benjamin P. Florida, Henry M. Hess, and Thomas A. Bonfiglio.

Four students were cited for their scholastic and leadership achievements: Harold G. Williams, winner of the Zelda Lyons Medal for proficiency in the humanities; Terrence C. Brennan, winner of the John A. Murphy Medal for highest ranking history student; Dennis C. Fox, winner of the William H. Riley Memorial Medal for academic excellence in business administration; and Benjamin P. Florida, winner of the John A. Murphy Scholarship for academic

SEE YOUR APPLIANCE DEALER

If you have to defrost your refrigerator you know it's the messiest of all kitchen chores. Just think of the time you spend chipping away at chunks of slow melting ice... the pans of hot water you use to hasten the defrosting process... the inevitable puddles of water on your floor... the cumbersome task of wrapping frozen foods in newspaper and trying to keep them as cold as possible.

Today's no-frost refrigerator-freezers eliminate these defrosting problems forever because frost or ice never form in the freezer or refrigerator sections.

And you'll be able to store up to 20 additional frozen food packages in the freezer section—there's never any ice to rob you of valuable space. Labels are readily identifiable without a layer of frost. Frozen food packages won't stick together. And what a joy it is to remove a tray of ice cubes without wrestling, hammering, and pounding.

Today's no-frost refrigerator-freezers offer a lot more, too. Many are equipped with automatic ice-makers and butter conditioners. Modern, thin-wall insulation on many models give more storage space in the same floor space as older models. Adjustable shelves, vegetable crispers, meat keepers, egg racks, and spacious door storage are some of the many features found on today's no-frost refrigerator-freezers.

Your appliance dealer has the model best suited to your family's needs. See him today.
