Man Told Go Away, You're Dead!

Shawinigan, Que.—(NC)— Rene Lacourse, 54, came "back from the dead."

Two days after his funeral Mass and burial (May 28) in his home parish of St. Leon de Maskinonge, Lacourse arrived at the home of his aunt, Mrs. Viteur Beland here. He had left home to work in a lumber camp in April, apparently without telling his family where he was going. Sickness broke out in the camp, the company dismissed the men and Lacourse decided to return home.

On the way he stopped to see his aunt here. When she opened the door she burst out: "Don't come in. You are dead. You were buried Monday." Amusement gave way to joy and then his parents and other members of the family were informed.

Lacourse learned that a body had been found in the St. Lawrence River. Although condition of the body complicated identification, it bore a general resemblance to him. The clothing seemed the same as that he had been wearing, including the shoes. A brother and brother-in-law identified the body and arrangements were made for the funeral.

Now the police are trying to establish the true identity of the drowned man.

Mass in English Begun In Mid-west Diocese

Winona, Minn.—(NC)—The Winona diocese has launched the use of English by priest and people in portions of the Mass, with reports of widespread enthusiasm over the change.

Bishop Edward A. Fitzgerald, head of the 109,000-member diocese in southeast Minnesota, issued a leaflet of approved translations of several prayers.

Parts of the Mass being said in English, carried out since May 24 in some churches are the Kyrie, Gloria, Creed, Sanctus, Our Father, Agnus Dei, the Domine non sum dignus, responses, the last blessing and dismissal.

In addition, priests are reading the Epistle and Gospel in English in the Mass facing the people. Translations must be taken from a version issued by the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine.

The Introit, Graduals, Offertory and Communion verses are a 11 official translations, if available, these also will be distributed.

The diocesan liturgical commission prepared a four-page leaflet containing the translations to be used as an insert in the Mass.

One Priest For 5500

Bolem, Brazil.—(NC)— There is one priest for every 5,550 Catholics in Brazil, as compared with more than seven priests for a comparable number in the United States.

These figures were released here by Auxiliary Bishop Tapan Probst, O.F.M., of Bolem following a survey. He noted that Brazil has 32% of the population of Latin America but only 27% of the priests.

The proportion of one Brazilian seminarian for every 41,000 Catholics also rates the country low in this category, he said, adding that Brazil ordains 250 priests each year but has an immediate need for 80,000.

Unity Expert Named Bishop

Vatican City.—(NC)— Msgr. Jan Willebrands, secretary of the Holy See's Secretariat for Promoting Christian Unity and an outstanding figure in the ecumenical movement, has been named a bishop.

Dutch Historian Warns On False Unity Hopes

Nijmegen.—(RNS)— Dr. L.J. Rogier, internationally renowned Catholic historian, cautioned here against "leaving people of other beliefs under the false impression that we expect Christian reunion to be a matter of give and take."

"We mean by reunion," he said, "the return to one Church under one supreme pastor, a church drastically changed in its structure and earthly appearance, but not in its teaching and doctrinal authority."

Dr. Rogier spoke at an academic session commemorating the 40th anniversary of the Catholic University of Nijmegen.

He said "It seems to me the bounden duty of Christian charity and of a true ecumenical spirit not to leave our Christian brethren of other beliefs in any doubt concerning this point."

Referring to a "certain anti-Catholic reaction" to a recent event—he was apparently referring to the conversion to Catholicism of Dutch Princess Irene and her subsequent marriage to Spanish Prince Carlos Hugo of Bourbon Parma—Dr. Rogier said this had not seriously disappointed him. He pointed out that he had already had doubts concerning "the ecumenical progress of some fellow Christians."
