Mississippi

Klan Pressure Mounts

Jackson Miss. — (NC) — Catholics in Mississippi are beginning to feel greater pressure applied by the revived and newly militant Ku Klux Klan in this state.

Klanism now number 81,000 here and are advertising for more native-born, white candidates to join their organization.

Excluded from membership are Catholics, Jews, Turks, Moslems, Tartars, Orientals, Negroes, or any other person whose background of culture is foreign to the Anglo-Saxon system of government by responsible, free, individual citizens.

According to a Klan circular, Catholics are excluded because "they bow to a Roman dictator in direct violation of the First Amendment, and the true American spirit of responsible, individual liberty."

Jews are similarly not acceptable "because they reject Christ, and through the new machinery of their international banking cartel, are at the root of our present economic depression of what we call 'communism' today."

Two publications, one of them Catholic, have felt the sting of Klan anger in recent weeks.

The Greenwood Commonwealth, a regular paper, was singled out for its editor's comment unfavorably on a series of Klan cross burnings in 64 Mississippi counties. A printed circular issued by an anonymous "local C.I.V.C. group" attacked the paper for its failure to "stand with Mississippians."

The same circular attacked the Center Light, a publication of the St. Francis Center in Greenwood. The center is operated by Fr. Christi, a group of laywomen who work with Negroes.

The circular declared that "this so-called newspaper is nothing but racial agitation in its rankest form. Its sole purpose is to extol Negro candidates for public office and to announce integrated social affairs and report on their success."

The Klan circular continued: "It comes as no surprise that this group of people, who are responsible for this publication, use religion as a camouflage for their integration activity. This misuse of Christianity is time worn and in extremely poor taste..."

This experience consists of study and discussion of high school Red Cross organization and programs. It is one of two workshops operated each session by the State Eastern Division of education of the American Red Cross.

Students were designed to help participants selected for their leadership potential to learn leadership skills and techniques which will help them to play leading roles in Red Cross programs and service activities in their local chapters and communities.

Students will participate in demonstrations of first aid, water safety and home nursing. Fifty-three chapters in the East Central states will send delegates between the ages of 14 and 18 to this week-long course.

Honors Class
 Fourteen members of the English 4 Honors Class at Notre Dame Academy took the Advanced Placement Test in English this semester. This test given to a selected number of students with high scholastic ability carries college credit for satisfactory performance.

Students selected for the test were: Margaret Mary Beemer, Susan Cudde, Karen DeVito, Ursula DeVolis, Maureen Ferron, Joanne Giarpina, Catherine Keaty, Kathleen Kunz, Carolyn McBride, Mary Ann O'Connor, Susa Schanz, Jacqueline Strujy, Patricia Tallinger, and Winene Wells.

IN ANSWER to this circular, Msgr. Thomas Fullam, rector of the Cathedral of Our Lady of Sorrows in Natchez, declared in his Sunday bulletin that the circular was "full of inaccuracies and malicious insinuation."

"People who hide behind slogans and titles inspired by prejudice and bias, as in the present case, have no love for the Catholic Church or for Catholics as such," he continued. "They complain because our priests visited or tried to help a young man in jail. Priests have been going that for 1900 years."

"We are ordained to serve all regardless of race or religion, and our services are especially directed toward those who are in need and those of the household of the faith. If we fail in this we are not worthy of being priests of God."

Dear Loretta Young
 Curfew

By MISS LORETTA YOUNG

Dear Loretta Young: I think your girl friend is right and that you are jealous. However, this is the normal reaction under the circumstances for a girl of your age. I realize that this can be very painful for you. Now is the time for you to learn that friendship grows with giving and with thoughtfulness of the other person.

Real friendship does not limit you to one friendship or one person. If so, chances are that it is not friendship but selfishness. They say the bigger the heart, the greater the capacity to love many people. Don't be an "it's his heart" girl.

Sincerely,
 Loretta Young

(Miss Young welcomes your letters. Write to her, care of "Early Bird".)

Week At Camp For Altar Boy
 Robert G. Eisenhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Eisenhart, a Ellis Drive was awarded a week at Camp Stella Maria for altar boys at St. Helen's School.

Robert is a sixth grade pupil at St. Helen's and is 11. He plays in St. Helen's School Band, belongs to Boy Scout Troop 137 and to the Grey Knights Junior League.

He has attended camp at Stella Maria in other years and had as a counselor, Rev. James Lawler, now assistant at St. Helen's and donor of the gift.

Dear Loretta Young
 Curfew

Dear Loretta Young: My problem is that I'm not getting out enough. I have 12 curfews and I go out two nights a week. I am allowed to stay out until eleven o'clock and that's not late enough. I feel that if I only go out two nights a week and I study all the other nights (Monday through Thursday), I should be allowed to stay out until twelve o'clock. Isn't that fair?

"Early Bird"

Dear "Early Bird": It seems to me that the "hour" is not the important issue here. It's where you go with whom you go and what you do when you get there. For instance, if you were invited to a party, like say from 8 to 12, and presuming that the party is properly chaperoned, I'm sure your parents wouldn't object to your embarrassing yourself and your hostess by leaving an hour before the party is over.

On the other hand, if by a date you mean single dating or even double dating when the destination is vague or a movie "sensational" or just hanging around at the mall, say—that's out absolutely. You don't realize it yet but the curfew that your parents have put on your dates is your greatest safeguard, not from fun and romance, but from heartbreak and misery.

As you mature a little more you will be grateful that your parents loved you enough to protect you the best way they could when they were not around.

Sincerely,
 Loretta Young

Miss Blige

Dear Miss Young: Lately I've been very worried about my best girlfriend. We're both the same age and both in grade ten. At one time we understood each other very well. But now her cousin Carol has stepped in and it seems to me that she has ruined our friendship. Now whenever I am at my friend's house, she'll say "Oh, Carol said this," and Carol said that." I think she is trying to get me angry. But why?

And now we hardly go out together because she always goes out with her cousin. She never bothers to come and get
