

State Hibernian Conclave Reported From Elmira

A report on the recent State Hibernian Convention, held in Elmira, was presented on two occasions last week by General Chairman Martin J. Fogarty and Ladies' Chairman Mrs. Thomas F. Coggins.

Chairman Fogarty gave the first report to the members of the State Division at their July 19 meeting.

A joint report by the general chairman and Mrs. Coggins was rendered the next night, July 21, at a picnic supper for the division and its Ladies' Auxiliary at the Coggins home, 438 W. Wylie St.

The report singled out all committee workers for the excellent manner in which each event was carried out.

Particular praise was due the division chaplains, the Rev. John S. Hayes, pastor of St. Patrick's Church and chaplain of the Ladies' Auxiliary, and the Rev. John J. Leary, pastor of St. John the Baptist Church and chaplain of the men's division.

The 1964 Convention, the 72nd Biennial State Meeting of the Empire State Hibernian Convention in this country, was termed even more successful than the last State Convention held in Elmira in 1960.

Some 700 Hibernian men and ladies from all corners of the Empire State took part in the conclave which began with registration at the Mark Twain Hotel on Wednesday afternoon, June 24. A welcome party for delegates was held that evening.

St. Patrick's Church was the scene, Thursday morning, of the first formal session opening the Convention, a Solemn High Mass, at which the Most Rev. James E. Kearney, Bishop of Rochester, presided and spoke.

The celebrant was the Very Rev. Donald M. O'Callaghan, O. C. M., of New York City, State Chaplain and Deputy National Chaplain to Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York, National Chaplain.

Father Hayes, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, acted as attendant to the Bishop.

Prior to the Mass, the delegates marched up No. Main Street, behind massed colors with the Elmira Fourth Degree Assembly and the Hibernian band leading.

The marchers were guided to the church by the traditional Green Line on the pavement. Capt. Thomas Whitford was parade marshal.

BISHOP KEARNEY and participating clergy, together with the Hon. Edward T. Lagonegro, Mayor of the City of Elmira, reviewed the marchers on the church steps.

The girls choir of St. Patrick's School, under the direction of Sister Mary Bellarmine, responded.

The Communion Breakfast held at Convention headquarters in the Mark Twain Hotel, following the picture feature, an address by Father O'Callaghan and the civic welcome by Mayor Lagonegro.

Father O'Callaghan, known as the country's foremost speaker on the Irish Catholic, inspired the delegates with his remarks, among which were, speaking on Civil Rights, he reminded them:

"We, whose forebears were work chains, should be the first to strike the shackles off others."

Chemung County District Attorney Paul H. McCabe, was toastmaster.

The Convention business sessions were opened Thursday afternoon with State President William Kinane of Brooklyn presiding at the men's meeting and Mrs. Lillian Leach of New York City presiding at the ladies' meeting.

That evening, Irish Nite was held in the Hotel Ballroom, highlighted by Old Time Irish entertainment of the Irish band, Jim Gorman and Jim Sinclear; the voices of the local Barber Shop Chorus and the ladies' president, John B. Bahr, and the organ music of Jerry Thomas, plus delegates volunteers. Awards were made of Waterford Glass gifts from Irish Air Lines and local merchants.

Prior to Irish Nite, the Chemung County Ladies' auxiliary, entertained the ladies with a social, attended by 300 ladies.

Attending both the social and the Irish Nite was Miss Myra Dowling, an air hostess with Irish Air Lines, in her trim green uniform.

Friday Morning was the solemn recital of the Memorial Mass at St. Patrick's Church for the deceased members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, and in particular remembrance for our late president, John F. Kennedy.

FATHER HAYES was the celebrant for the Solemn Requiem Mass.

The preacher was Father Leary who complimented the remembrance with thoughts about the late president.

He underlined the great loss to the American people by his untimely death and described the late President as "no state coming to the Hibernian ranks" having joined in 1947.

At noon, the Clergy Luncheon with Father Leary and Hayes as hosts, was held at the Hotel for all attending and area priests.

Leo R. Gow, Upstate representative of Irish Air Lines, made a plaque presentation at 1 p.m. to the local division, a memento of the award-winning State division of Bart J. Maloney, a division member.

The delegates moved to Harrow Hill, United States gliding center, to enjoy the Glider-Ved picnic supper and glider demonstration in the rarified air. Many delegates were treated to their first glider ride and awards by Irish Air Lines.

They were back at the hotel to enjoy the Convention Ball that evening with Mark Terry's Orchestra providing the entertainment, joined by the Tom Dolley Chorales, members of the Dr. Tom Doolley Division, Camillus.

Business sessions were held Friday morning and afternoon, and thanks to a fascinating and efficiently run operation, nominations were made that day and elections held Saturday Noon.

The most important Resolutions Committee, under the chairmanship of Father O'Callaghan reported Friday and called for a pledge of allegiance to Pope Paul VI and for harmony among all religious groups, asserted the loyalty of all Hibernians to this country's constitution; called for the prevention of the admission of Red China to the U.N.; called for compliance with Civil Rights legislation; called for all legitimate means for the end of the partition of Ireland; and thanked Bishop Kearney for his aid in the opening of the Convention and further thanked the clergy of Elmira for its assistance, and expressed gratitude to the civil authorities of Elmira for their courtesies, and congratulated the local Hibernian on the fine Convention.

THE CONVENTION closed Saturday night with the Convention Banquet at which the Very Rev. Nicholas J. Sullivan, S.J., president of Le Moyne College, Syracuse, was the main speaker.

Also speaking were: the Hon. James J. Comerford of New York City, the first National Hibernian president from New York in the group's 128-year-old history; William Kinane of Providence Rhode Island, National Vice-President and Editor of the Hibernian Digest; and John F.
