Pope's Blessing For Aged Woman

Rome—(RNS)—Pope Paul VI, en route to the papal summer villa at Castel Gandolfo, stopped his motorcade in a small square of Rome's Trastevere district to visit an old woman paralyzed for 25 years.

After entering the house and climbing four flights of stairs to her tiny room, the pontiff prayed with her and gave his blessing. The Pope gave the ailing woman a statuette of Our Lady of Fatima, famed Marian shrine in Portugal.

The Pope, who has rarely shown by himself and visited during his summer sojourn, was accompanied by his aide, the cardinal secretary of state, and a number of his aides.

In a brief talk to the crowd outside the Santa Maria, he told them he had come to Trastevere to honor the Madonna, to whom the oldest church in Rome is dedicated, and to "meet the people."

Praying their faith, the Pope exhorted them to remain faithful to the Virgin Mary and the Church.

James L. McGee Requiem Offered At St. Jerome's

Funeral Mass for James L. McGee was offered in St. Jerome Church, East Rochester on Monday, July 13. Mr. McGee died Thursday, July 9 at his home 221 West Chestnut Street, East Rochester, after suffering a heart attack.

REQUIEM HIGH Mass was celebrated by Rev. Roy B. Murphy, assisted by Rev. Paul T. Murley, deacon, and Rev. John D. Quigley, subdeacon. Also in attendance were Rev. Leonard A. Kelly, Rev. John LeVaque, and Rev. George Gauthier. The singing for the Mass was done by James V. McGrath, a retired postal employee. An honor guard consisted of postal employees and retired postal employees.

Mr. McGee attended the Old Cathedral School, St. Andrew's and St. Bernard's Seminary.

Mr. McGee was appointed a clerk in the Rochester Post Office in 1918 and promoted to foreman in charge of mail classification in November, 1925. He retired from the postal service in April 1957 having worked 45 years under eight Rochester postmasters.

Mr. McGee was recognized as an authority on postal laws and regulations. He was active in postal organizations, was secretary of the National Association of Postal Supervisors for many years, was an elected delegate to state and national postal conventions and was a member of the National Federation of Post Office Clerks and the National

Rural Life Marks 40 Years

St. Louis—(NC)—The National Catholic Rural Life Conference, founded in this city in 1924, will hold its 40th anniversary convention here from Aug. 27 to 30.

Joseph Cardinal Ritter of St. Louis will be host to the convention. Coadjutor Bishop John L. Morikovsky of the Galveston-Houston diocese, president of the conference, will preside at its board of directors meeting and the convention banquet.

The convention will focus its attention on the past achievements of the conference and its future challenges. Among the speakers will be Bishop Joseph M. Marini, G.P.S., of Jefferson City, Mo., and Merton Wheeler, director of industrial education of the Missouri Department of Education.

Sodalists In India

Bombay—(RNS)—Plans were announced for the first national convention of the Sodalities of Our Lady in India here, Nov. 28-Dec. 1. The meeting will be attended by delegates representing 80,000 Sodalists in 2,000 parish societies.

The convention will coincide with the first four days of the 89th International Eucharistic Congress, Nov. 28-Dec. 6. However, the "Sodality" program, which includes religious functions and business sessions, has been arranged to prevent any clash with the congress.

In recent years the Indian Sodality movement has been promoted throughout the country by Father F. A. Benac, S.J., in cooperation with regional and diocesan directors.

'Tooth Brush' Bell Tower

Beltsville, Switzerland—(RNS)—This unusual bell tower, topped by a simple cross, marks the location of a new Catholic church now under construction. The bold architectural lines of the church have caused many comments—pro and con—among Catholics and non-Catholics alike. Some have labeled the tower "the tooth brush."

Lutherans Name Rome Observer

Lincoln—(RNS)—Dr. Oswald C. J. Hoffmann of St. Louis, Mo., former public relations director for the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod and currently full-time speaker on the Lutheran Hour, radio program, will be a guest at the Vatican Council's third session which opens Sept. 14.

Annual Bazaar Opens At St. Alphonsus Parish

Auburn—Final plans were completed for the annual summer parish bazaar at a meeting of the booth chairmen held Monday evening in St. Alphonsus School hall.

Rocco Malvaso, general chairman, called upon the following booth chairmen who gave detailed reports: Bazaar opens July 23 and continues through Saturday evening, July 25.

BOOTH CHAIRMEN reporting were: Robert Schneider, John Howland, Francis Muldoon, Raymond Kahl, Thompson, Howland, John Colburn, Halo D'Agostino, John Boecker, John Vergamini, John Tomasi, Warren, Harding, Bernard Simonds, Allen Fallon, the Tierney Twins and Mrs. Jeanne Suetin, Mrs. Allen Fallon, Mrs. Catherine Anton, Mrs. Margaret and Patricia Walters, Mrs. William Dayton, Mrs. Marjorie Vall and Mrs. Ernest Brown.

Red Pressures Cut Down Seminary Enrollments

Vicenza—(RNS)—Over a 10-year period the number of Roman Catholic priests in Czechoslovakia has been reduced by 54 per cent—from 7,600 in 1948 to 3,200 today.

Where once 300 new priests were ordained annually, only 50 were ordained this year, according to Slovak sources here.

The Communist drive against the Church, begun after World War II, has closed all except two seminaries. Observers said the Catholic clergy of Czechoslovakia consists of "many very old priests and a few very young priests."

According to a recent issue of Catholic clergy of Czechoslovakia newspaper, only 18 men graduated this year from the only Slovakian seminary, located at
