

Corning Couple Marks 70th Wedding Jubilee

Corning—Mr. and Mrs. Horace Young of 144 Columbia St. recently marked their 70th anniversary of marriage. Mr. Young, called "Doc" by his friends, is 70 years old. Mrs. Young is 68.

Members of St. Patrick's Parish, the Youngs owe their happy marriage to the fact that they have always had just one good look between them. They were married 70 years ago at St. Mary's Church by the Rev. Dean Colgan.

Mr. Young, who has been confined to a wheel chair for the past five years, but who still likes it himself, enjoys sitting on his front porch watching the passing scene. He can be found there from the earliest good spring until the first days of fall.

When a very young man, Mr. Young worked for the Corning Glass Co. He later went to Piquette, Ohio, with other Corning men to work for the Libbey Owens Glass Co. It was when returning home to Corning with his companions to spend a Fourth of July holiday that the train was wrecked at Ravenna, Ohio, and 22 young Corning men were killed. He suffered a foot injury that remained all his life. He is the last known survivor of that tragedy, which is marked by a monument in St. Mary's Cemetery in memory of those who lost their lives.

For 43 years, until his first retirement, Mr. Young was employed by the New York Central Railroad. Not content with inactivity, he opened a small grocery store on E. First St., which he operated with the help of his daughter, Mrs. Joseph Ryan of E. First St. About 14 years ago he retired for a second and final time and is now content to sit and smoke and think.

Outside of my legs, that isn't so good as they used to be. I'm getting real thin. I eat good and sleep good, and I really enjoy my cigar out here in the open air.

Mrs. Young, although not appearing outside as frequently as her husband, enjoys good health. They continue to live alone and their children aid in their needs and comforts.

In addition to Mrs. Ryan, the Youngs have a son, Leon, of 140 Columbia St.; five grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.
