First Friday Men List Talk By Father Sarkis

"Role of Eastern Rites in the Catholic Church" is the topic for a talk by the Rev. James R. Sarkis, pastor of St. Nicholas Greek Melkite Church to men of the First Friday Luncheon Club, Sept. 4, at Hotel Sheraton.

Father Sarkis who is also on the faculty of St. Andrew's Seminary will be presented by Rev. William G. Holberton, club moderator and chaplain of Rochester Council, Knights of Columbus sponsoring organization.

THE LUCHEON will begin at 12:10 p.m. according to Donald E. Woomer, chairman. Men who receive Holy Communion on the First Friday are eligible to attend whether K. of C. members or not, Vice Chairman Raymond L. Neary said.

Father Sarkis, a native of Rochester, was the first priest of the Greek Melkite rite to be ordained in the United States when he received Holy Orders at St. Basil's Seminary, Methuen Mass, Sunday, June 21, 1962.

Son of Mrs. Wady Sarkis and the late Mr. Sarkis, the newly ordained priest attended Blessed Sacrament school, and St. Andrew's Seminary. His studies in the rite Melkite began at the Methuen Seminary.

He celebrated his First Solemn Mass at St. Joseph's Church, Rochester. The Mass was in the Byzantine Liturgy. Ordinarily said in Greek and Arabic, the Greek Melkite Mass is now being offered in English in the United States.

Pope Avoids Controversy On Doors

Oriente—(RNS)— Pope Paul VI's visit here served to draw public attention to a controversy over whether the famous Cathedral of Oriente should have new doors.

Recognized as one of the most beautiful in the world, the cathedral was originally built to house the corporal, or altar cloth, on which, tradition says, drops of blood fell from the host during a Mass at nearby Bolsena when the celebrant was oppressed by doubts regarding Christ's presence in the Eucharist. This was in 1285, a year before Pope Urban IV instituted the universal Feast of Corpus Christi.

Construction of the cathedral was begun in the Romanesque style in 1280, but was continued in the Gothic style by Lorenzo Malini in the early 14th century. It has a very ornate facade in the form of a triumph, but its main doors are very simple and fashioned of plain wood.

Two years ago, Oriente ecclesiastical authorities commissioned a Sicilian sculptor, Elio Greco, to carve new doors in bronze, and this immediately stirred controversy.

One group maintained that the ancient doors should be left as they were, that modern additions would spoil their look. They argued that the plain doors provided a good background to the rich facade featuring many mosaics.

A second group, however, claimed that the new bronze doors would blend well with the old cathedral. They argued that over the centuries various other artistic additions had been made to the cathedral.

The church authorities, it was reported, had hoped that the Pope's visit would sway the decision in their favor. But the pope refused to be drawn into the controversy.

Laymen To Edit National Paper

Kansas City — (NC)— The National Catholic Reporter, a new national weekly newspaper, will begin publication here in the fall, edited by laymen and published independently of formal Church affiliation.

Robert G. Hoyt, editor, and Michael J. Greene, managing editor of the Catholic Reporter, newspaper of the Kansas City-St. Joseph diocese, will be editor and publisher, respectively, of the new publication.

Greene credited Bishop Charles H. Helmsing of Kansas City-St. Joseph, with putting the new paper "well down the road to a successful beginning."

The bishop, he said, offered the use of the diocesan newspaper's staff and offices, thus making major publishing economies possible.

"It's important, Bishop Helmsing is actively promoting the principle of lay responsibility by cooperating in an effort to bring the basically secular skills of journalism to bear in service of the Church," Greene said.

Hoyt said that the new newspaper will be "primarily a newspaper, meaning that its function will be to report what is going on in the Church, not to explain or defend it."
