Ecumenical Action To Be Stepped Up

Philadelphia—(NC)—Archbishop John J. Krol has called for stepped up efforts by Catholics in the ecumenical movement and outlined a program of action for the Philadelphia archdiocese.

The Archbishop, in a letter to priests of the archdiocese, said he was putting the archdiocesan ecumenical program under the Commission on Human Relations established last June. He urged that Catholics engage in prayer, study and action to increase their effectiveness in ecumenism.

Archbishop Krol said ecumenism is "an authentic impetus of the Holy Spirit" and noted that it has been strongly endorsed by Pope Paul VI.

"As usual," he commented, "the timorous regard it with distrust and the zealous try to push it beyond its proper dimensions. Correctly understood, the goal of ecumenism is the goal of the Church's mission to unite the human race in Christ."

IRA Conference Listed Oct. 3

The Second Annual International Reading Association Conference will be held Saturday morning, October 3, at Rush Henietta Senior High School, East Henrietta Road, Henrietta.

The general session begins at 9:30 a.m., with registration from 8:30 a.m.

Keynote address will be given by Dr. William D. Sheldon, Director of the Reading Laboratory and Chairman of the Improvement of Learning Program at Syracuse University since 1948.

Dr. Sheldon has conducted many workshops on reading throughout the country, is the author of the Sheldon Basic Readers, and is consultant in reading to many industries.

Regional meetings will be held throughout the morning, covering different levels of reading, with special sessions for the 'Slow Learner' and for Administrators.

Books exhibits will be available throughout the program. The exhibits are welcome to attend the sessions which will conclude at 12:45 p.m.
