Her Time is Well-Spent

"When a wife and mother enters organizational work outside the home, she wants to feel that her time is well-spent" said Mrs. Raymond (Joan) Hensler after a recent board meeting of the Monroe County Council of Catholic Women. Therefore she was enthusiastic and "a bit overwhelmed" when nominated for the presidency of the Council last May.

After five months in office, Joan has discovered that this organization potentially touches the life of almost every Catholic woman in the county. With 80 affiliated groups, the local council is not only an idea center for Rosary Society and Mother's Club meetings, but also presents some of today's most controversial problems at its own council meetings.

"Working on topics for our council meetings is one of the most challenging of my jobs as president," Joan observed. "Since the meetings are open to all the women of Monroe County parishes, the program must be stimulating. Our first meeting of the year concerned the racial question and the turnout and audience participation were tremendous."

"We had the same response at our Nov. 17 meeting."

Father Gerald Dunn offered a positive approach to family planning in discussing the new Family Life Clinic.

Joan's first concrete experience with apostolic work in the Rochester diocese came shortly after her graduation from Nazareth College in 1952. Hearing of the challenging work being done by the Legion of Mary in her home parish of St. Anne's, she became an active member. Besides helping with the spiritual growth of the families of St. Anne's, Joan took an active interest in the Puerto Rican families who had recently moved into the city.

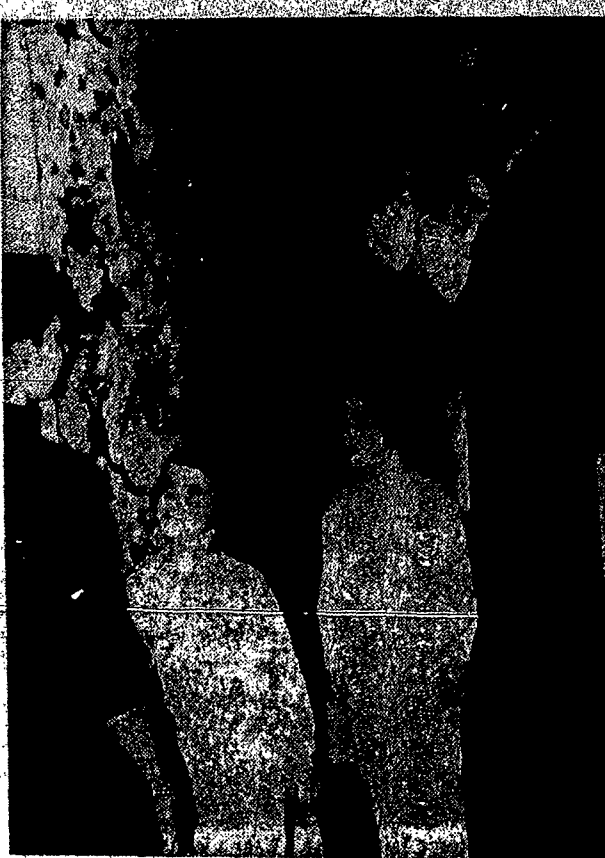

Joan still has a very special feeling about the Legion of Mary since she met her husband-to-be at one of her first praesidium meetings. Dr. Raymond Hensler is head of the Ceramics Research and Development Department at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. A graduate of Penn State University, Ray also had his first contact with apostolic work in the Legion of Mary. He served for three years as the president of the Rochester Comitium, governing body of the Legion in the diocese.

Since their marriage, Joan and Ray have continued their commitment to the lay apostolate. When the first group of the Family Movement was established at St. Anne's, they were charter members. Joan served as president of St. Anne's Rosary Society and Ray was chairman of the parish fund drive. Since moving to their new home in St. John the Evangelist parish, they have both become members of the confraternity of Christian Doctrine.

Like any mother Joan has to balance her apostolic work against the prime responsibility of her family. "I feel," states Joan, "that every Catholic woman needs to be involved in some way, great or small, in apostolic activity. The Monroe County Council has offered a genuine challenge to me."

"We feel that our participation in the church community definitely draws the family closer together," notes Ray. "It is often inconvenient but we have developed a real sense of teamwork. More important, it is a wonderful example for the children."

Press Group South Orange — (N.C.) — The New Jersey Catholic Institute of the Press will sponsor a seminar Nov. 19 at Seton Hall University here titled "Ethics and the News."

7:30 P.M. Mrs. Raymond Hensler bids good-night to her husband and children, Barbara, Anne and Catherine.

8:00 P.M. Mrs. Hensler plans the next Council meeting with the chairmen of the Family Life Committee, Mrs. Gerald Dee (seated) and Mrs. Robert Glechaug (standing).

children. We hope that they will become Catholics whose faith is a vital thing in their lives."

Mrs. Sibley Reviews 'Observer in Rome'

"An enthusiastic and sympathetic view of Vatican II by a friendly and perceptive Protestant observer."

This was the capsule summary of Robert McAfee Brown's "OBSERVER IN ROME" made by Mrs. Harriet Sibley last week's MONDAY MORNING REVIEW in the Catholic Evidence Library.

The book was somewhat accidental in origin but its readers will judge it a happy accident indeed," said Mrs. Sibley in her introductory remarks.

SHE EXPLAINED that Dr. Brown, an official Protestant observer at Vatican II, kept a diary of his Council impressions mainly to share them with his wife as time went on. He felt that this contained the germ of a book. This gives the finished work a personal, chatty note which adds to its readability.

"I feel that Catholic readers will be impressed by Dr. Brown's grasp of Catholic doctrine and his friendly concern for the success of the Council she went on.

Like the author, Mrs. Sibley was especially interested in the ecumenical aspects of Vatican II. Based a participant of several ecumenical meetings of the World Council of Churches, Mrs. Sibley is followed the threads of 20th century ecumenism with deep interest.

She mentioned that she had the great privilege of attending the opening session of Vatican II in the fall of 1962 — "surely one of the great gatherings of Christian history."

Dr. Brown's witty and astute descriptions of the second session are so full of life and give the reader the feel of things as they actually were, the reviewer opined.

Mrs. Sibley agreed with Brown's view that the changes in the future discussion on Christian unity was established by Pope Paul VI's opening remarks at the second session on Sept. 29, 1963.

In his call for "reciprocal penance" in his words that both sides must admit their share of the responsibility for a divided Christendom, Pope Paul VI said a foundation for future dialogue, the author suggested.

It takes 6 1/2 seconds to fasten a seat belt

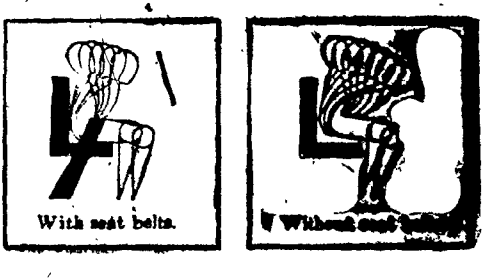

Best investment in time you'll ever make

6 1/2 seconds could save your life. Or prevent serious injury. That's all the time it takes to pick up a seat belt . . . and fasten it.

If everyone did this—every time—the National Safety Council says at least 5,000 lives could be saved each year, and serious injuries reduced by one-third.

Here's a simple reminder for you and your passengers the next time you drive—"Buckle your seat belt, please."
