

Joe Repko Ends Aquinas Tenure

Aquinas Institute accepted Joe Repko's resignation as head football coach, it was announced today. The former professional football player who has served at Aquinas since 1956, will continue his teaching duties at the Catholic boys' high school until the end of the present school year.

The announcement was made in a joint statement by Repko and the Rev. Cyril F. Carter, C.S.B., Aquinas athletic director.

The school said it was not prepared to name a successor. Repko, who just returned from the National Collegiate Athletic Association convention in Chicago, said he had several job prospects but was as yet undecided.

Repko, his wife Irene and their four daughters live at 15 Marivest St. in Greece. He intends to remain in the area and may enter the business world.

REV. LEON G. HART, C.S.B., Aquinas principal, acknowledged "the fine job coach

JOE REPKO

Repko has done in his nine years at the school. His efforts on behalf of Aquinas football are sincerely appreciated. We wish him nothing but success in any future undertaking."

"At the present time, we are not prepared to name a successor as head football coach," Father Carter said. "We will be considering prospective candidates over the next few months and should have a further announcement in late spring."

Repko came to Aquinas in the fall of 1956 from Battle Creek, Michigan where he enjoyed five successful years as coach at St. Philip's high school. He offered his resignation to Aquinas authorities on Oct. 12, 1964, but it was not officially accepted until today.

Born in Pennsylvania, Repko grew up in the Wilkes-Barre area. He began his football career at Lansford High School where he was captain and played tackle and guard. At Boston College he became a great guard under Frank Leahy.

It was after Boston College upset Tennessee, 19-13, in the 1941 Sugar Bowl that Leahy was promoted to Notre Dame. Repko was an unsung hero in that game which featured a touchdown pass by a former Aquinas football coach, Mickey Connelly. Joe Repko had picked up a fumble which led to the winning score.

Repko spent three years in the Army where he spent part of the time coaching football to American soldiers in England. Then he returned to play in the 1946 All-Star game.
