

24 Teams To Compete In 3-Day CYO Tourney

A whirlwind schedule of 30 games in less than 48 hours will produce three C.Y.O. champions this weekend in the 14th Annual Diocesan Parish Basketball Tournament.

Beginning on Friday night, March 26, at the CYO Auditorium and winding up with the championship games on Sunday afternoon at McQuaid Jesuit High School, the tournament will bring together 16 grammar school teams and 8 from the high school age bracket.

The defending champion in the high school division is St. Patrick's of Elmira. Rochester entries this year will be Holy Cross, Sacred Heart, St. Andrew, and Blessed Sacrament. Their opposition will come from leagues throughout the diocese.

In the grammar school division, there are green and white classifications, based on school enrollment. Sacred Heart of Rochester is the defending white champion while St. Patrick's of Elmira was last year's green winner. Sacred Heart and Blessed Sacrament are the leading local entries, both having gone undefeated in regular season play.

The tournament concludes a season of activity that has encompassed 113 teams and almost 1700 boys. Cochairmen are George Monagan, Athletic Director at Monroe Community College, and Tom Emmanuel, head of the area's basketball officiating body. CYO coordinators for the three-day stand are Howard Meath and Peter Todd.

Bl. Sacrament Takes Crown

Blessed Sacrament High School Basketball team won the City of Rochester Catholic Youth Organization High School Basketball Championship last week on the CYO court, by defeating Sacred Heart 82-78, in a close hard fought ball game.

Sacred Heart had defeated Blessed Sacrament earlier in the year by 9 points in overtime.

Holy Cross finished in third place in the City Championship by virtue of a come from behind 67-65 win over St. Andrews.

St. Andrew's Closes Record Court Season

St. Andrew's Seminary college Spartans finished their 1964-65 season last week establishing several new team and individual records. A new record of four consecutive wins closed out the Seminary schedule giving Coach Jim Griffin's boys their best record ever, 10 wins and 0 losses. Three of the losses were to higher classification clubs taking some of the sting away.

The Spartans outscored their opponents 1216 to 1196 for a game average of 76 against opponent's 74. Individual scoring was led by Bill Casey who, playing in all 16 games, tossed in 305 points for a 19 per game average. Casey was a real two way player being used in both defensive operation of the club.

John Barnoski was top rebounder and finished as the front and back court on defense and contributing greatly to the team's second high scorer with 218 points for a 14.5 game average. Bob Krommiller and Tim Wood served as floor generals steadying the Spartan five often during the season while also contributing fine rebounding and many key points. Jim McSweeney played 13 games scoring 165 points and sparking the team on many occasions by intercepting opponents passes or stealing the ball and going the length of the court for easy two pointers.

Mark Masterson, Tom Stroh and Bill Hohman played key roles especially on defense appearing in all games giving starters required rest periods. Masterson's finest effort came against Mt. Carmel College when he played the entire forty minutes in place of an injured Barnoski. He controlled both boards and tossed in 18 points. Jay Travers, Paul Schaefer, Tim Durkin, Pete Snyder and Len Paganelli completed the squad and each contributed to the successful season on different occasions in several different games.

This team, probably the best balanced, in the college's short basketball history can be proud of its record, its fine showing against other college freshmen J.V. teams and its undefeated record against all other seminary college quintets.

Mission Bouts Set at Aquinas

By WHIT JOHNSON

In the glare of floodlights focused on a boxing ring in the middle of the Aquinas Auditorium on Friday and Saturday nights, March 26 and 27, the annual Aquinas Mission Bouts will be held for the 28th time.

Ten bouts each night, pairing 40 boxers from atomweight to heavyweight, will be swinging for titles they have trained for since early winter.

The bouts are one of the most unique sporting spectacles of this type in the country. Eliminations are held in the school gym each day after school in the weeks prior to the finals. With every bout he wins, a boy comes closer to the dream of the big bout in the auditorium.

The Mission Bout rules are strict and stress safety. Doctors examine every fighter before his appearance in the ring, and a ringside physician is in attendance during the finals. There has never been a serious injury in the history of the Bouts.

In the past quarter of a century Aquinas students have contributed more than $350,000 to Missions throughout the world. A great deal of the money has been given to former students of Aquinas who are working in the mission fields—many who were Mission Bout fighters themselves.

In addition to the S. Rae Hickok Trophy, annually awarded to the outstanding fighter, another trophy named in honor of Abe Raff is presented to the two fighters making the best fight on the card. Raff, a local businessman, has for many years helped with the training of the fighters and acts as third man in the ring.

Five defending champs, Tom Tortora, Jim Byrnes, John White, Denny Clark and Jim Gould, are listed among the 40 scrappers. Clark, who has graduated from the airweight to the paperweight class this year, won the Art Teleric Trophy last year as the outstanding freshman fighter of the year.

Cancer Lecture At St. Mary's

Frank R. Hendrickson, M.D. will be guest speaker for Cancer Teaching Day at St. Mary's Hospital, Bishop Kearney Educational Building, Friday and Saturday, March 26 and 27, sponsored by the Monroe County Cancer and Leukemia Association.

Dr. Hendrickson is assistant professor of Radiology, University of Illinois College of Medicine and the Director of Radiation Therapy at Presbyterian St. Luke's Hospital, Chicago.

On Friday, March 26 4 p.m. he will lecture on "Combination Therapy in Curable Cancer" and Saturday, March 27, 9 a.m. at Surgical Grand Rounds he will discuss "Pre-Operative Radiation."

His appearance was arranged through the efforts of staff members at St. Mary's Hospital. It is one of a number of such "days" at local hospitals sponsored by the Monroe County Cancer and Leukemia Association.

Qualified physicians and medical students are welcome.

A Nazareth College senior is one of seven college students to receive an Honorable Mention Award in the first photography competition to be conducted by Mademoiselle Magazine.

Judith Boldish of North Troy has received word that the magazine will publish the awards in its August issue. There are two first prize winners in addition to the honorable mention awards.

Miss Boldish has studied photography at Nazareth under the direction of Tom Muir Wilson and Sister Marie Angela. She has photographed various campus scenes for use in college publications and is president of the yearbook "Sigillum," only Art Editor of the Nazareth yearbook.

Bishop's Report Dinner Scheduled For May 11

The dates for three important events in Catholicism—Scouting in the diocese of Rochester were announced this week by two newly-appointed leaders of the Catholic Committee on Scouting.
