Adult Lecture Series Prospers at McAuley

An Adult Lecture series, loftED as a trial balloon at McAuley Junior College last fall, has soared aloft and maintained an encouraging altitude, according to the coordinator of the program, Sister M. Petrus.

The fall series which listed four 6-lecture topics enrolled some 200 interested participants. The current series, with 3 topics, is doing a brisk business, too.

"We feel that we are meeting a real need for many busy Catholics, who'd like to up-date themselves in some subject or penetrate it more deeply," Sister Petrus said.

Most popular subject to date has been the "Scripture and Liturgy" series, presented by Fathers Benedict Ehmann, William Shannon and Albert Shamon.

The format is a talk of about 45 minutes, followed by a coffee and cookie period during which discussion flows freely. Sister said happily that there's been no problem stimulating discussion, that if anything it needs to be terminated at a reasonable hour.

Priests and nuns of the McAuley College faculty, bolstered by some outside speakers, have been providing the lectures.

The current Spring session lists Father L. James Callan doing critiques of key books of great modern thinkers, under the title of "Contemporary Views on Human Values"; Sister Pius offering a 6-part series on Public Speaking; and Sisters Mark and Beatrice alternating on a unit called "Changing America: Domestic Scene and World Leadership." The latter surveys American history from a political and literary viewpoint.

For the most part, the groups are of a size (25-35 people) which encourages spirited discussion of the topic during the "coffee and" period.

The Mercy Sisters who staff McAuley College are gratified at the response to the lectures and plan to continue with a diversified program in the fall.

British Laymen Send Appeal to Pope Paul

London — (RNS) — Twenty influential Roman Catholic laymen and women in England have sent a report to Pope Paul's commission on birth control studies to urge that use of contraceptives in marriage be permitted.

The group includes doctors, lawyers, businessmen and other professional men and women in the Catholic stronghold district of Liverpool. One signatory is Dr. Desmond O'Regan, a member of the medical committee of the Catholic Marriage Advisory Council.

All are described as people "well-known personally and professionally in England."

In their report they declared that a new articulate Roman Catholic laity were feeling increasingly that something has gone seriously wrong because of the "inconsistency" of the Church's teaching on birth control. They also said this conviction constituted a serious crisis for the Church as it was gathering strength daily and the efforts of theologians to meet it it on traditional lines were unavailing.

News of the group's dramatic — almost sensational — action was first disclosed by The Guardian, an influential British secular newspaper. The newspaper also said two leading Roman Catholic medical consultants had protested that only one British representative was on the Pope's secret commission and that he was a doctor holding the "orthodox" Church view.

This representative was identified as Dr. John Marshall, physician at the National Hospital for Nervous Diseases and chairman of the medical advisory committee to the Catholic Marriage Advisory Council.

The two medical consultants are Sir Francis Walshe, a noted neurologist and consulting physician to leading English hospitals, and Dr. John Ryan, a gynecologist in private practice in London. In statements supporting the Liverpool group's report to Rome, they said they objected to the secrecy which had surrounded the appointments to the Pope's commission and the fact that no other opinion from Britain except Dr. Marshall's was to be voiced in its sessions.

Sir Francis said: "I feel that the choice of one person, irrespective of any views that he may hold, cannot be said to represent Catholic medical opinion in Britain. The Catholic medical profession, as such, is not putting its various views before the commission."

Drivers Training

St. Paul, Minn.—(NC)—The Minnesota House Education Committee has recommended passage of a driver education bill that would include non-public school students in its provisions.

'Man for Hour'

Jersey City — (NC) — "Pope John was God's man for the hour," Methodist Bishop Fred Pierce Corson told 600 St. Peter's College students here.

Fewer Dates Cuts Dropouts

Philadelphia — (NC)—Sound advice to parents on dating habits of their sons was cited as one element which brought about an "amazing decline" in freshman year dropouts at La Salle College here.

Thomas N. McCarthy, counseling center director, called the college freshman year "the graveyard" for dropouts. He said that through counseling, La Salle has whistled its way past the "graveyard" and cut the dropout rate from 13% in 1962 to 3% this year.

The summer counseling program at the Christian Brothers college for men includes a full day of testing, another day of personal counseling for each freshman and a session with parents at which their son's transition to college life with its difficulties and conflicts are discussed.

Mission on TV

Columbus — (NC) — A five-day Catholic mission by television, first of its kind in Mississippi where Catholics make up only 3 per cent of the state's population, was conducted over the facilities of station WCBI here.

Father Bernard F. Law, editor of the Mississippi Register, Natchez-Jackson diocesan newspaper, conducted the March 8 through 12 mission. Parishes in Columbus, Aberdeen and Starksville and Catholics at the Columbus Air Force Base cooperated in the project. The program each night included a brief film on one of the parishes, a Scripture reading and the mission talk by Father Law.

Nun-Surgeon Honored

Philadelphia—(RNS)—Sister M. Mathias Zimmerman (right) of the Medical Mission Sisters of Philadelphia receives the news that she has been made a Diplomate of the American Board of Surgery. The nun-surgeon is shown with Sister Lourdes Tobin, also a physician and a member of the medical missionary order. Sister Mathias, born in Fort Loramie, Ohio, received her M.D. degree from Georgetown University, Washington, D.C., and completed her four-year surgical residency at St. Louis City Hospital in 1964. Her first mission assignment was to New Delhi, India, where the nuns maintain the Holy Family Hospital. Sister Lourdes also has served in New Delhi and is a graduate of the Lady Harding Medical College there.

ST. THERESA. On Sunday, Apr. 4, the members of the Sacred Heart Society at the St. Theresa Church will serve full course chicken dinners in the parish hall. The dinners will be served from 1 p.m. and a donation is $1.50. Proceeds from the dinners are for the benefit of the church.

Accidents Cited in Plea For Buses

Des Moines—(NC)—A fatality and 12 injuries among persons traveling to private schools in the past 10 weeks show the need for an Iowa "fair school bus law," it has been argued here.

Iowa's Citizens for Educational Freedom, leading the fight for tax-paid bus rides for all school children, released the statistics.

Jim Collision, CEF executive director, said Mrs. Raymond Weber of Danbury was killed March 11 in a car-truck collision while driving her two children and three of her neighbor's children to a Catholic school. Two of the Weber children are hospitalized, Collision said.

Eight private school pupils were injured on Jan. 6, he continued. They were riding to a private school in North Washington, Iowa, in a car driven by a 16-year-old student.

The driver, Collision said, was injured along with five of his brothers and sisters and two of their neighbor's children.

On the same day, Collision continued in a statement, two other private school pupils were injured in Kalona, south of Iowa City. The car driven by a 17-year-old pupil, collided with a public school bus. The car's driver and his passenger were injured. They were enroute to the Iowa Mennonite High School.

"Mrs. Weber would not have died if Iowa had not denied the protection of public bus transportation to private school children," Collision said.

"How many more parents and children will die or be injured before Iowans decide to protect all children going long and hazardous distances to school?" he asked.
