Notre Dame Opens Season

Notre Dame's "clubbing" Crusaders, led by Coach Warren Tessier, will soon be taking the field against some formidable opponents. The Crusaders lost some top players through graduation, but returnees and some new faces are filling the gaps admirably. The power hitters of last year are being replaced by the speedsters of this season's squad. Catching position will be filled by Jack Leonard, a junior who saw limited action last year. Dan Stowell and Larry Comereski are also in the lineup.

This season, Coach Tessier will have a large group of pitchers from which to choose. Coming back for their second year of varsity ball are Matt Cary, Bill Huddle, Jim Merriam and Bill Morrell. Two new hurlers on the squad, a senior and soph respectively, are Mike Morrell and John Bodeves. The latter has one of the most fiery fastballs in the area. Cary is an outstanding relief pitcher.

At third base will be Mike Hamrahan, with John Gublo and John Wronkoski backing him up. Mike Bennett will take over shortstop position with Mike Collins at second. Both players are excellent glovemen. Rounding out the infield will be either Dan Clark or Jack Kent, at first base. Both are good fielders, and Clark can be a terror at the plate.

Joe Cascio, Jack Marosek, Mike Amisano, Dave Merriam and Tony Savino will be Notre Dame's outfielders this year. Last year, as a sophomore, Cascio led the team in the hitting department. Bennett, Leonard, and Stowell are the power hitters, with Marosek and Merriam coming up with the clutch hits.

Model UN Meet

Assuming double duties of representing the United States and acting as hostesses to Monroe County high schools, Merriam and Comereski are preparing for the 1965 Model Meeting of the United Nations General Assembly on Thursday, April 29. Several key students are organizers for the African-themed assembly.

According to procedure, all choose one country to represent in the UN Assembly: Mercy, representing the United States, will present a three-minute statement of policy by delegate JoAnn Grass, senior. Mercy, UN rep to the Rochester Association for the United Nations. Senior Ellen Murray will act as advisor. After speeches are terminated, the delegates are free to discuss the proposed resolution. With an African theme in mind, the RAUN has narrowed the topic to the Portuguese Angola trouble-spot. Under discussion will be the resolution on ending colonialism passed July 3, 1964, by the UN Special Committee of twenty-four. This colonial controversy will dominate the program which includes an after-school assembly, dinner, and a guest from the UN in New York, who will speak and evaluate the afternoon proceedings.

Couple Marks Silver Jubilee

Geneva — Mr. and Mrs. Anthony DiCostanzo of 53 Middle St., celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary on April 11. Actual wedding date is April 15. The couple attended an anniversary Mass at 8:30 p.m. in the school hall of St. Francis de Sales parish. Members of the family were present for the service.

They were taken to dinner by two of Mrs. DiCostanzo's brothers, Philip and Joseph Augustine, and their wives, at Seneca Manor.

Members of the family arranged a buffet in their honor at home.

The DiCostanzos have two sons, Thomas and Anthony; and two daughters, Barbara and Josephine.

Mr. DiCostanzo is employed in the maintenance department of the College of the Seneca.

Introducing Calvert's Goof-proof cocktails

Up to now to get drinks this good you had to be buddies with the bartender. These are the new Calvert ready-to-serve cocktails. It took us four years to make them goof-proof. The secret is: Make everything that goes into the cocktails yourself. And make it good. Take our Whiskey Sour. Made with Calvert Extra, the Soft Whiskey, plus lemon and orange. Sound easy? It isn't. If you put fresh juice into a bottled cocktail, it starts to oxidize—or fall apart. Fruit extracts will last longer, but they never taste quite fresh. What we do is buy our own fruit. Then actually distill a fresh fruit essence in our unique "cocktail still." The result is a Whiskey Sour that tastes as if your bartender friend just poured it into a frosted glass and slid it across the bar.

To get a great Daiquiri, we had to make a great rum. It's the first rum ever made in Hawaii and it makes a humdinger of a Daiquiri. For the Martini? Calvert 100% dry gin and our own extra dry vermouth. It took years to make that vermouth, but it was worth it. There isn't a mean streak in our Martini. It purrs when you pour it over ice. Our Manhattan is a Soft Manhattan, made with Calvert Extra. And our not-too-sweet vermouth. And that's it. Anyone who wants to copy our cocktails is welcome. (Lotsa luck.) Meantime, why don't you relax and have a drink? Calvert's got it all ready for you. No one—not even your goofy Aunt Marjorie—can go wrong. Unless she puts cherries in the Martinis and olives in the Whiskey Sours.
