Nine Receive Prizes In CDA Poetry Contest

Auburn—Nine parochial school pupils have received prizes for poems they wrote and submitted to Court Auburn, Catholic Daughters of America. The contest is part of a national Catholic Daughters poetry contest. Awards were made recently at a meeting of Court Auburn in the Knights of Columbus home.

The winners in Division I were Michael Walsh, grade 4, St. Alphonsus School; Susan Vail, grade 6, Holy Family School; Christine Rogalski, grade 4, St. Hyacinth School.

The winners in Division II were Nancy Yura, grade 8, St. Mary's School; Stephen Conboy, grade 8, Holy Family School; Mary Jean Galgano, grade 8, St. Abysius School.

Winners in Division III were Susan Denman, grade 10; Susan Hickok, grade 12; Mary DiLella, grade 10, all from Mount Carmel High School.

Division IV winners — college level — were Sister Rose Christine, St. Alphonsus School; Mother St. Anne Marie, St. Francis School; Mary Catherine Mullen, Holy Family School.

Miss Marie McDonald, chairman of the local poetry contest, was assisted by Edwin Nolan, Michael Orifino and Miss Dora

Clary of the West High School faculty.

These poems have been sent to the New York State Court CDA, to be judged on the state level.

Miss Ella Delaney, Grand Regent of Court Auburn, has arranged for the installation of officers and the reception of new members to be held in St. Alphonsus School auditorium May 18th at 2:30 p.m. Mrs. Theodore Busch is in charge of refreshments.

The members of Court Auburn attended the 8 o'clock Mass at St. Alphonsus Church on Saturday, May 1st, in commemoration of National First Saturday Holy Communion Day of the Catholic Daughters of America.

Switzer-Shults Nuptials Said

Coming — Miss Judith Fahy Shults became the bride of David Merton Switzer of Painted Post last Saturday morning, May 1 at Our Lady of Mercy Church. ### Mark St. Dominic Savio Feast

Candy Bars For Baseball Diamonds

BISHOP KEARNEY High School students, beginning a two-week drive to raise money for recreational facilities, line up to receive cartons of milk chocolate bars. In addition to tennis courts and two baseball diamonds already under construction, the students are hoping to raise sufficient funds to outfit a student lounge.

Aquinas Grad Named

With a record turnout of 85 per cent of the students casting votes, Edmund A. Calvaruso, a junior, was named to head the St. John Fisher College Student Board of Governors in a campus election held Friday, April 30. He succeeds P. Daniel Clancy.

Calvaruso, 21, is a political science major at Fisher. A graduate of Aquinas Institute, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Calvaruso, 65 Ambrose St.

Results of the student balloting were announced at the annual White Orchid Ball at Oak Hill Country Club Friday evening. The election followed a week of vigorous campus political activity.

Chosen to assist the new Fisher student body president are: vice-president, James R. Ferry; treasurer, Daniel Kinsky; and secretary, J. Thomas Vogel.

Ferry, a junior majoring in economics, also is an Aquinas graduate. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Ferry, Sr., 82 Coolee Rd., Irondequoit.

A McQuaid Jesuit High graduate, Kinsky is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kinsky, 80 Lechnawer Pkwy., Pittsford. He is a sophomore mathematics major.

Vogel, a freshman, is a graduate of Christian Brothers Academy, Albany.

Elected as senior governors were Joseph McGuire and John Pike of Rochester, Patrick Hoke and Leon Sawyko of Greece.

Introducing Calvert's Goof-proof cocktails

Up to now to get drinks this good you had to be buddies with the bartender. These are the new Calvert ready-to-serve cocktails. It took us four years to make them goof-proof.

The secret is: Make everything that goes into the cocktails yourself. And make it good.

Take our Whiskey Sour. Made with Calvert Extra, plus lemon and orange. Sound easy? It isn't. If you put fresh juice into a bottled cocktail, it starts to oxidize—or fall apart. Fruit extracts will certainly last longer, but we decided to go a step further.

What we do is buy our own fruit. Then actually distill a fresh fruit essence in our unique "cocktail still." The result is a Whiskey Sour that tastes as if your bartender-friend just poured it into a frosted glass and slid it across the bar.

To get a great Daiquiri, we had to make a great rum. It's the first rum ever made in Hawaii and it makes a humdinger of a Daiquiri.

For the Martini? Calvert 100% dry gin and our own extra dry vermouth. It took years to make that vermouth, but it was worth it. There isn't a mean streak in our Martini. It purrs when you pour it over ice.

Our Manhattan is a Soft Manhattan, made with Calvert Extra. And our not-too-sweet vermouth. And that's it. Anyone who wants to copy our cocktails is welcome. (Lotsa luck.)

Meantime, why don't you relax and have a drink? Calvert's got it all ready for you. No one—not even your goofy Aunt Marjorie—can go wrong. Unless she puts cherries in the Martinis and olives in the Whiskey Sours.
