

Patriarch's Freedom, Vatican Plea

Vatican City — (RNS) — Vatican Radio appealed to the Turkish authorities not to adopt measures which would adversely affect the Greek Orthodox Ecumenical Patriarchate in Istanbul.

Calling attention to recent reports that the Turkish government might ultimately oust the patriarchate on the ground that it was a "subversive" center, the station said it hoped such news "does not correspond with the facts."

It said any such action would be "at variance with the Turkish authorities' professed respect for the liberty of all its citizens and their unwillingness to involve themselves in problems of a religious nature."

Moreover, the Vatican Radio stressed, "these authorities have no reason for taking such a decision, being well aware that the Ecumenical Patriarchate has no authority over the heads of the other Orthodox Churches and can therefore in no way be blamed, or considered responsible, or implicated in any initiatives or functions, which some of these may eventually undertake."

"The Holy See," the station said, "trusts that by recognizing the noble person of the Patriarch and the religious function of the patriarchate, the Turkish authorities will give proof and testimony of the desire for peace and reconciliation, with which they are animated."

The station added that "the presence of a spiritual center of such vast importance does honor to a country whose seat it is, and the country will show its greatness by assuring to such an institution all the liberty it needs to carry out its spiritual mission for the good of all."

May Rites In Catatunk

Catatunk—May coronation at St. Francis Church took place Monday, May 20 at 8:30 p.m. May queen was Miss Theresa Zamolaki, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zamolaki. Attendees included Misses Barbara Andrews, Elisabeth Nagel, Theresa Cyganovich and Alicia Zamolaki. Pamela Nagel was crown bearer.

Father Matthew Sludars, pastor, officiated at the coronation. Members of the junior choir participated in the procession under the direction of Miss Jeanette Shady. Mrs. Pauline St. Pierre and Mrs. Frances Shady were chairman.

New Look Nun

Sister Francetta Barberis of Webster Groves, Mo., wears "civilian" as she inches her way toward a new assignment—assignment to the Job Corps of the Office of Economic Opportunity in Washington. The nun, a Sister of Loreto since 1918, was to retire June 1 as president of Webster College. She has received permission from her superiors to wear secular clothing while serving in the OEO post. When off duty she dons her religious garb.
