'Pro Deo' Wins Papal Approval

Rome—(RNS)—Founded 20 years ago, the Pro Deo International University of Social Studies in Rome, has been given canonical recognition by Pope Paul VI, together with its affiliated International Pro Deo Union.

This was done in an Apostolic Brief signed by the Pope on March 7 and made public at an interreligious gathering for the dedication of one of the university's halls to the memory of the late Henry Kaufmann of Pittsburgh, prominent Jewish merchant and philanthropist.

Announcement of the papal brief was made by retired New York State Supreme Court Justice Joseph Proskauer, president of the Kaufmann Foundation, which contributed substantially to the erection of the hall. Honorary president of the American Jewish Committee, Jerome Proskauer, formally dedicated the hall in the presence of Amleto Giovanni Cardinal Cicognani, Vatican Secretary of State, and other cardinals of the Roman Curia.

Also attending the ceremony was Father Felix Morlion, O.P., Belgian-born president and rector of the university, which now has (Catholic and non-Catholic) a study body of 1,500 from 42 countries. Students take post-graduate courses in European, Latin-American and North American Studies, international law and politics, public administration, management and sociology.

Underground Thrives on Secret Press

Hong Kong—(NC)—The steady circulation among university students in Canton of a bulletin containing news items from foreign news broadcasts, including Manila's Catholic radio station, was reported here by a recent refugee from Red China, a Catholic doctor.

Describing what resembles an embryonic underground movement, the doctor said that the material is gathered by a small group of university students in secret possession of short-wave transmitter tubes. Only a very small number of these bulletins are prepared and they must be surreptitiously handed from student to student.

The students dare not reveal to their families at home what they read in these bulletins, even though their content is restricted to foreign news items and bits about the transfers of officials in their own country.

The doctor said that the contradiction between what the students learn from the bulletin and what is written in the public newspapers is so evident that they would not read the papers were they not compelled to read them for discussion in group indoctrination classes.

Regarding the activity of the "patriotic Church" in Canton, the doctor said that at the cathedral the "patriotic" priests in charge and the Catholic lady who attend Mass there have to take care as a group in indoctrination classes "tailored to their group need" although not specifically directed at religion.
