Protestants View Council

Minneapolis — (RNS) — A book evaluating the first three sessions of the Second Vatican Council from a Protestant viewpoint has been published here by Augsburg Publishing House.

"Dialogue on the Way" was edited by Dr. George A. Lindbeck of Yale Divinity School, a delegate-observer at the Council for the Lutheran World Federation.

Contributors, besides Dr. Lindbeck, were Dr. Warren A. Qunbeck, professor at Luther Seminary, St. Paul; Dr. Oscar Cullmann and Dr. Vilmos Vajta of Switzerland; Dr. K. E. Skjoldsgaard and the Rev. Gerhard Pedersen of Denmark and Bishop Hermann Dietzfelbinger, the Rev. Wolfgang Dietzfelbinger, and Dr. Edmund Schlink, all of Germany.

"Our hope," said Dr. Lindbeck in the preface, "is that this book will be a genuine contribution to the conversation between separated Christian brothers."

Radio Program New York — (NC) — A special program on the Holy Spirit in the life of the Church will be broadcast June 6, Pentecost Sunday, on the NBC radio network at 12:30 noon.

Knights Told Be Apostolic

Lafayette — (RNS) — Auxiliary Bishop Warren L. Bourdeaux of Lafayette challenged Knights of Columbus here to "move into the mainstream of Catholic apostolic life."

Giving the main address at the annual dinner of the state K. of C. convention, he told the laymen to assume "as part of your being and purpose a new and revitalized spirit of the apostolate."

The bishop said that Knights must do what the Church is striving to do through Vatican II, "to look into her own soul and to revitalize herself, to give anew the old truths that saved her birth, and to find in the spirit of these same truths a new birth, a new Pentecost." "There are many Knights," said Bishop Bourdeaux, "who wear the sword at their side, but do not draw it, figuratively, to fight the battles of the Lord."

New Student Council Officers

Sister Josanna, moderator of the St. Agnes High School Student Council, pins newly elected president Julie Mancini as Mary Knight (left), Barbara Wahl (center) and Nora Keogh wait to be installed as secretary, treasurer and vice president respectively.

Elected

EDWARD L. ALEO, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Aleo, 400 Ramson Rd., was elected president of the Associated Men Students of Idaho State University, Pocatello, Idaho, where he is a Junior in Speech Pathology. He was awarded the John T. Bourne Inter-collegiate Knight Scholarship and named outstanding student of the A.M.S. Council.

Council Goals Also for Orders

Vatican City — (RNS) — Pope Paul VI, in what observers regarded as an exhortation to all the religious orders in the Church, urged close attention to "every thing the Church is doing through the Second Vatican Council."

The Pope's words were addressed to members of the 19th general chapter of the Salesian Society of St. John Bosco, who were received in special audience. The pontiff spoke in reply to an address of homage by the order's newly-elected rector general, Father Luigi Ricci.

"Through the Council," Pope Paul said, "the Church is striving toward the true goal of her Divine Master. Through the Council she is making a great effort to sanctify Christian living, to understand the history of salvation more fully, to make greater contact with mankind today."

The pontiff cautioned that anyone who "interprets the Council as a slackening of the inner circles of the Church toward her faith, traditions and asceticism" is much mistaken.

He would be equally in error, the pontiff said, in "thinking that Christianity is fragile and ductile, relatively lacking in principle, easy and accommodating."

Rather, he added, the Council is "aiming at a precise discipline and modern understanding, and not at the price of giving up anything whatsoever."

The Pope devoted much of his talk to lauding the outstanding work of the Salesian order, especially in the training of youth.

"The Salesians," he said, "are important in the world life of the Church. Their effective achievements are more eloquent than any statistics; their goodness, their unyielding, their spirit and enthusiasm and sense of sacrifice; their faith, piety, energy; their elected mission of service to youth, with preference for the children of the poor."

Attendance At Mass 50%

Bonn — (NC) — Between 40% and 45% of the Catholics of West Germany attend Sunday Mass regularly and receive the sacraments of Penance and Holy Communion at least once a year, according to a survey released here (May 19).

Participation is greatest in rural areas, smallest in big cities. Even in the cities, however, there are wide disparities. In the capital of predominantly Catholic Bavaria, Munich, whose population is 1.2 million, 8% of the Catholics attend Sunday Mass regularly. In Cologne, with some 830,000 people, the figure is 1.5%.

Dialogue with Orthodox

Athens — (RNS) — A prominent Greek Orthodox theologian said that "four categories of differences" to be discussed in the future dialogue between Orthodox and Roman Catholicism three will be relatively "easy" to handle, but the fourth — on doctrine — of its very nature will require study of "very long" duration.

The three "differences" that lend themselves to ready treatment, according to Dr. Hamlicar Alivizatos, are the results of "ignorance, misunderstanding and prejudice."

State representative to the Holy Synod of the Orthodox Church in Greece, the lay theologian cited these "four categories of differences":

1. "Differences created because of ignorance, due to the fact we did not know each other because of great distance and long separation.
2. "Differences created because of misunderstandings, due to the same reasons listed above.
3. "Differences created because of fanaticism, lack of goodwill, prejudice and neglect, which usually found a permanent echo among simple people.
4. "The category of real differences which are the most difficult ones, those for which no allowances or elasticity are permitted because questions of Faith are Truths, and on Truths there is no room for dispute.

"While an understanding in regard to the first three categories is very easy — because these differences either do not exist at all or are without any essential meaning — in the case of the fourth category agreement will be difficult (to attain)."

Mt. Carmel Knights Mark 25th Year

Mt. Carmel Commandery No. 308, Knights of St. John celebrated its 25th anniversary on Sunday, May 16, 1965. Twenty-seven uniformed members of the military rank led the members and members of the Ladies Auxiliary in procession to the 10 o'clock Mass at Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Church.

In the evening a dinner-dance was held at Island Cottage Hotel. President Joseph Cimino, general chairman was assisted by Joseph Cooper and Joseph Volpe as cochairmen. Don Santoli was toastmaster.

Father Joseph O. Gorman, in the principal address, reviewed the accomplishments and aspirations of the Commandery since 1940. Papal Scrolls from the Vatican were presented by President Cimino to each of the three founders of the Commandery, Joseph Volpe, Frank D'Amico and Joseph Passero.

"The theological discussion on these (major) differences," he said, "will naturally be very long, and this is in reality the Dialogue, which first must discover the real existing differences and secondly determine whether it is possible for them to be removed."

"It is obvious that the measure (yardstick) in estimating the doctrinal differences cannot but be the Holy Bible and the Holy Tradition. Consequently, for a long time the dialogue will (be restricted) to theological subjects and nothing else."

Food Sent To War-torn S. Domingo

Santo Domingo — (NC) — The U.S. Catholic overseas relief agency together with U.S. government and other private agencies has been doing yeoman service in distributing food to the needy during the fighting in the Dominican Republic.

Catholic Relief Services-National Catholic Welfare Conference "is playing an integral part in the President's emergency food program," reported Father James Clark of Washington.

Father Clark, assistant to the director of the National Catholic Welfare Conference's Latin American Bureau, has been assisting in the relief work at the request of the papal nuncio to the Dominican Republic, Archbishop Emmanuelle Clarizo.

In three weeks the Agency for International Development and U.S. voluntary agencies distributed some five million pounds of emergency aid in the Dominican Republic, most of it in this strife-torn capital, the priest said.

In one operation on May 18, Father Clark reported, Catholic Relief Services in cooperation with AID sent 12 trucks loaded with 246,000 pounds of rice, vegetable oil, corn meal and milk to 19 cities and distribution points in the interior of the country.

Nurse Cured At Lourdes

Paris — (RNS) — A Catholic ecclesiastical commission has certified as miraculous the cure of a nurse following a visit to the shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes in 1959.

Friends told the nurse to the shrine in Southern France at a time when she was gravely ill from osteomyelitis in the left thigh bone.

Announcement of the Commission's action was made by Archbishop Marc Armand Lallier of Marseille, who noted that the cure of Juliette Tamburini, aged 29, was the 65th to be formally attributed by the Church to the healing powers of the waters in the Lourdes Grotto.

Mlle. Tamburini had been suffering from the bone condition for many years when she was brought to Lourdes. Her leg was bathed with water from the Grotto of the Apparition.

According to her physician, Dr. Jean Bouvais, the condition disappeared overnight and a few hours after returning to her home, the patient was able to walk unaided.

Press Gains In Australia

Sydney — (NC) — Since World War II there has been a remarkable growth both in the circulation and impact on the community of the Catholic press in Australia.

The increased influence is demonstrated by the fact that most of the secular dailies now regularly scan copies of the various state — which in the main are really diocesan — Catholic weeklies, and often quote in their own columns or editorial comment stories from these papers.

There has been, too, an almost revolutionary change in the production of Catholic newspapers and magazines. Form has changed and in the monthlies color is now the rule rather than the exception. Most of the weeklies have replaced their old plants and have installed new presses.

LaFarge Award For Cardinal

New York — (RNS) — Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York, was presented with the Father John LaFarge Memorial Award by the Catholic Interracial Council of New York at a dinner here attended by many notables in religion, government, industry and labor.

The cardinal was cited for "distinguished contribution to the betterment of interreligious and interracial relations and his consuming belief in the dignity of man."

Established last year, the award honors the late Father LaFarge, who died November 1963, after a long career in behalf of interreligious and interracial goodwill. He was a chief founder of New York's Catholic Interracial Council.

Supervisors Salute Cardinal

Los Angeles — (NC) — The Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors has saluted Cardinal McIntyre of Los Angeles for his "personal contribution to civic betterment and improvement."

For this reason, the Pope said, the Sisters must "re-examine their customary tasks and ways and adapt them accordingly."

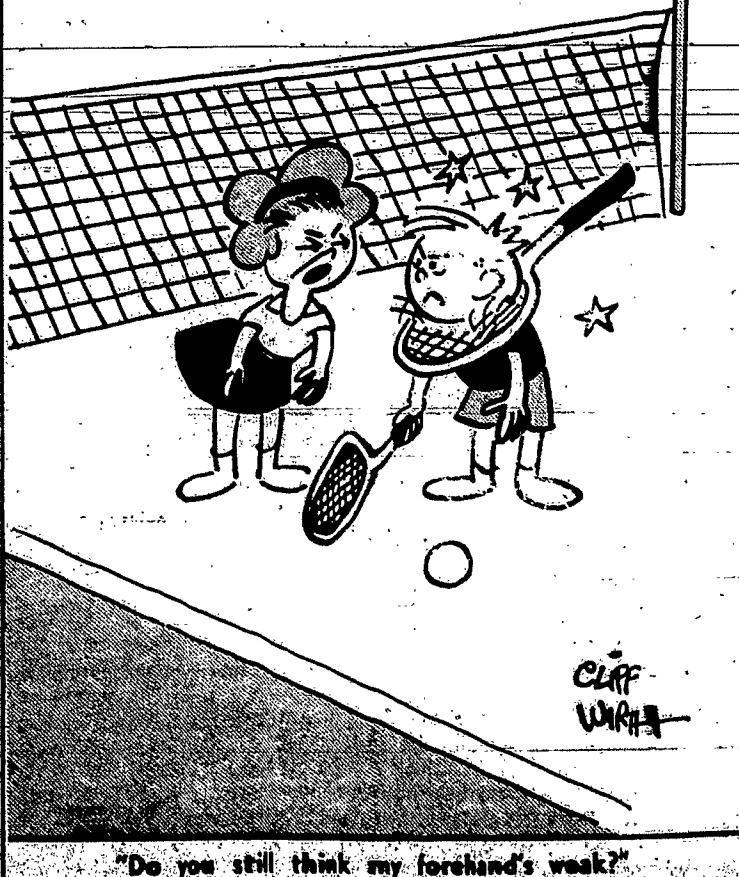

'Dialogue' Of Salvation

Vatican City — (RNS) — Pope Paul VI stressed the Church's need to "enter a new dialogue of salvation with the world" during an audience to delegates attending a general assembly in Rome of the Daughters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul.

Speaking in French, he told the nuns they should feel it impossible to "stand aside from this movement" and that they should take part in it with enthusiasm and apostolic zeal, all the while remaining faithful to your vocation of serving all.

The pontiff ended with words of appreciation and encouragement for the Sisters as they "lived vocations" in the changing world of today.
