Notre Dame Sisters Plan Reading Center

The School Sisters of Notre Dame plan to open a Reading Center at St. Michael School on Clifford Avenue. Classes will be in-session mornings during the month of July.

Reading specialists will be on hand to help children with individual reading problems. They will also give specialized instruction to small groups of children with similar reading difficulties.

"Many children with average and above average intelligence frequently are below average in reading ability and achievement. When the difficulties are relatively mild and uncomplicated by emotional problems, children usually improve when systematic instruction is given at their specific levels. This calls for careful analysis of difficulty, and a well planned Corrective Program to deal effectively with the difficulties on an individual basis," according to a spokesman.

"Reading is the key to all other subjects, and a child with a reading difficulty is a child with a serious handicap. A problem which is not recognized or treated early enough may well become a psychological problem, complicated by emotional upsets, and damaging to personality. Many high school dropouts are children with long histories of reading failure," the Sister stated.

Registration for the SSND Reading Center is now in progress. Since groups will be strictly limited in size, children will be accepted in order of application. Information is available from the child's principal.

INDIA! MONSOON DANGER

THE HOLY FATHER'S MISSION AID TO THE ORIENTAL CHURCH

"The rain still comes," Father Abraham Vakuparampil writes from southern India. "Here in Keezhvanmizhy," he adds in tones of grave concern, "it rains continuously from early May through July." His anxiety is due to his knowledge of the devastation caused by the flash floods which accompany the monsoon seasons. He is aware of the imminent peril to his small chapel located on a tiny plot of land along the swollen river bank. He is mindful of the real danger to his 200 peasant parishioners who want to attend Mass, receive the sacraments. Father Abraham, a vigorous young priest of 32, must build a new church, a safe distance from the low-land area. Land is scarce in Keezhvanmizhy. In Kerala State (where it is located) 18 million people live in an inhabitable area of 10,000 square miles. This determined priest has located an acceptable parcel, which he must purchase immediately or risk losing. Because the poor parishioners (an entire family, including the children who must work when not in school, earn less than $15-a-month) will help with the construction, a small church can be built for only $3,500. Build the church in memory of your loved ones, and in honor of your favorite saint. Give at least whatever you can ($100, $75, $50, $25, $10, $5, $2, $1) in thanks for all God has given you. No sacrifice is too large, no sacrifice too small.
