Growth in Prayer

It is possible to get to heaven without receiving a single sacrament. For example, a person may be ignorant of the need for baptism, yet may achieve the state of grace by having a genuine love for God.

It is possible to get to heaven without a sacrament, but for a person having the use of reason it is not pendhie to get to heaven without prayer. The obligation to pray (in proportion to one's capacity) is absolute.

It is surprising that many of lightly. Too often we remain first we discover, by self-reflection, where we are standing any progress in prayer beyond right now. the habits of childhood. Staff from the Charles House visited many of the families in the area to see if the agency could offer some service. The parents expressed a desire for such activities, especially for 8-10 year old children. They felt this age group was isolated from other playgrounds and community facilities in general. Heavy traffic prevented these children leaving the area. Madison Park itself was also off-limits for these children.

About 50 children registered for the first day's program. Attendance has gained day by
