

Married Couples on Retreat

Dr. and Mrs. David Schirmer (kneeling) and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hughes spend a few moments in the prayer garden during the Married Couples' Retreat held at the Notre Dame Retreat House, Rochester, last weekend. The Schirmers belong to the Immaculate Heart of Mary Parish in Painted Post, while the Hughes' are from St. Louis' Parish in Pittsford. Hughes is also the president of the Laymen's Retreat Movement in the Diocese. 22 couples made the weekend Retreat conducted by the Rev. David Sharrock, C.S.R. The next scheduled Married Couples' Retreat is August 13-15. Twenty-five dollars per couple is the offering asked. Reservations for 13 couples are still available. For further information, write Rev. Richard Moran at the Notre Dame Retreat House, 246 Alexander St. or call BR 1-6876.

New Teachers at Fisher

Four new instructors have been added to the faculty of St. John Fisher College. According to Rev. Joseph P. Hottel, C.S.B., dean of the college, the continuing expansion of the teaching staff reflects the steady growth in student enrollment at St. John Fisher. The appointments become effective in September.

The new members of the Fisher faculty are:

William G. Walker, 28, a native of Toronto, Canada, who will teach theology;

Joseph A. Pollzi, 26, of 82 Yorkshire Rd., Irondequoit, who will teach philosophy;

Frank S. DeLuca, 24, of 100 Lakeside St., who will become director of audio-visual services; and

Richard J. Fenton, 26, of 27 Rochester St., Scottsville, who will teach economics during the fall semester only.

Walker, now a graduate student at Marquette University, Milwaukee, Wis., has a master's degree in education from Xavier University, Cincinnati, Ohio, a bachelor's degree in communication arts from the University of Cincinnati, and a diploma in television direction from Bryson Institute of Technology, Toronto. He is married.

A 1960 graduate of St. John Fisher College, Pollzi is now a candidate for a doctorate in rural sociology at Cornell University, where he has been a teaching assistant. He received a master's degree in sociology from Fordham University in 1961 and was a Fulbright scholar at the Agrarian Research Center of the University of Naples, Italy, in 1963-64. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell A. Pollzi of the Yorkshire Rd. address, he is single.

DeLuca is also a St. John Fisher graduate. A history major, he received his bachelor's degree in 1961. He earned a master of arts degree in history from Niagara University the following year and a master of science degree in radio television from Syracuse University in 1964. At Syracuse he produced a biweekly show, "The Lights of Broadway," on WAER, Syracuse University's educational station. He served on active duty in the U.S. Army in Rochester from November 1954 to April 1955. DeLuca resides with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen V. DeLuca, Fenton.

Fenton has been a graduate student at the University of Rochester since 1961. He received his master's degree in economics last year and is completing his dissertation for the doctorate. He also earned bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Connecticut. He has taught at the University of Rochester and at Connecticut. Fenton's appointment is for one semester only; he will go on active duty as a 2nd lieutenant in the U.S. Army in January.

Father Dorsey also announced that Mrs. Mary R. Neary, 32 Oakdale Dr., Brighton, will resume duties as a full time instructor in English in September following a one-year leave of absence.

Peace Corps Girl Said 'Living With Purpose'

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article appeared in the Armed Forces newspaper in the Panama Canal Zone. It was forwarded to Sister Eva Marie, Nazareth College Director of Development, who in turn sent it on to the Courier-Journal. The parents of the young lady, whose Peace Corps achievements are reported below, are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Chapman of 296 Wyndham Road, Rochester, N.Y.)

By Chap. (Maj.) Edward R. Lawler

In case anybody is worried about the ability of today's teenagers to know a good thing when they see it, forget it. They recognize class when they see it. And they saw class recently when 65 high school students of the Howard and Albrook Catholic Youth groups met and listened to Miss Kathleen Chapman, Peace Corps Volunteer from Panama.

A native of Rochester, N.Y., she entered Peace Corps training upon graduation from Nazareth College in June 1963. Miss

KATHLEEN CHAPMAN

Chapman spoke against a background of nearly two years in Panama as a Peace Corps Volunteer in the Rural Community Division Program.

For 20 months she worked with the people of Rio de Jesus, a small town in the Veraguas Province. There she lived among the people, trying to guide them in ways and means to better sanitation, health, water supply and other basic helps for which Peace Corps Volunteers are known.

The main thing, Kathy Chapman did for her listeners, both teenage and adult, lay and clergy, was to instill new hopes and new goals for better human relationships. With confident modesty, she described the rigorous Peace Corps training program which included the "drownproofing" course climaxed by a test to prove the trainee's ability to swim for 45 minutes with both hands and feet tied, and the survival test which sent four girls into the hill-country of Puerto Rico with almost no money and less food to fend for themselves in the countryside amidst people whose language they hardly spoke.

Fourteen hours of class a day in the language, social structures, cultural background, and geography of their future work area went on for many weeks before the trainees became "volunteers" in Panama.

Most important was Miss Chapman's description of what Peace Corps membership has done for her rather than what she has done for others. All the evidence was there. It has made her a wide-awake, capable, charming young woman, mature far beyond her years in the understanding of her own personality, the psychology of human nature.

She described the many small successes, the few big ones, the days of frustration, the hours of loneliness living with people of a completely different cultural background, the temptation to leave the work behind, the determination to contribute at least some small positive betterment to the lives of the people in the community assigned to her.

All of this high quality humanity was not lost on the young people, their teachers and their pastors. Miss Chapman possibly taught a more lasting lesson the value of living with a purpose than all the classes during the school year in social studies, religion and civic responsibility put together.

The interest, effort, and goodwill shown by the teenagers present who had participated in the religious education programs at Albrook and Howard, gave evidence that there are potential Peace Corps Volunteers in the group who also will develop the high qualities of character and personality of Miss Kathy Chapman, Peace Corps Volunteer, United States of America.

John Fisher, 8 Years Old

John Fisher is more than a memory of a sixteenth century saint at St. John of Rochester parish in Perinton. He's an eight-year old "Fresh Air Kid" from Brooklyn visiting the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Tubbs of 3 Wickford Way. Father John LeVeque, pastor, tells young John about his famous namesake. John has two brothers and two sisters and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Fisher of Brooklyn.

Patronal Church Sets 36th Annual Novena

36th Annual Novena in honor of good St. Anne will take place in St. Anne's Church, 1600 Mt. Hope Avenue, beginning on Sunday, July 18, and ending on the patronal feast, July 28.

Mid-summer heat will prove no discomfort for those attending this year, because the church has been newly air-conditioned, stated Monsignor William A. Naughton, pastor.

Father Conor Reilly, Jesuit priest from Dublin, Ireland will conduct the novena services, which will begin each evening at 7:45 p.m.

Dialog prayers for the novena are those used at the famous shrine of St. Anne de Beaupre in Canada. A large and authentic copy of Murillo's painting of St. Anne and the young Virgin Mary hangs above the high altar of Rochester's St. Anne Church.

Devotion to St. Anne began first in the Eastern Church, spread to the West later, took strong roots in France, and was brought to Canada by French settlers. Many churches and shrines along the St. Lawrence River honor "le bonne St. Anne."

A relic of St. Anne will be available for veneration after each service. Special intentions may be handed in, according to the novena announcement.

Parish Group To Visit Poland

Fifty parishioners of St. Stanislaus Church, Rochester, will begin a month's tour of Europe Monday, July 19. Heading the tour will be Rev. Alexander Stec, pastor. Three of his nieces, the Misses Josephine, Katherine and Stella Zawadzki will be members of the group. A visit to Poland will conclude the tour.

Cities to be visited during the tour include Amsterdam, Paris, Vienna, Lourdes and Rome.

Some of the tour members will travel directly to Poland for reunions with relatives and friends. The trip to Poland will be a "homecoming" for Mrs. Helen Kret, Mrs. Antonia Kubiak, Mrs. Salomea Napiorkowski, Mrs. Lottie Olek, Mrs. Katherine Rosewaki, Mrs. Katherine Skrub, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Zolnierowski who came from that country at least 50 years ago.

Aiding in guiding the tour are Mrs. Casimer Zamara and Mrs. John Seelag.

Knights Elect William Kelley

William T. Kelley of Newark Council 897, Knights of Columbus was elected chairman of Central New York Chapter, K. of C. at a meeting held Sunday in Cortland.

Grand Knight Robert J. Farrell of Rochester Council-178 was chosen warden.

The Chapter comprises 40 councils with a combined membership of 12,000 members.
