

Thomas Cloonan Requiem, Spokesman Backs Farm Labor Reforms

Brother of 2 Priests, Nun

Solemn Mass of Requiem for Thomas D. Cloonan was offered Saturday, July 24 in St. Louis Church, Pittsford. Mr. Cloonan, 50, died unexpectedly July 21, 1965 at his home, 1 Green Hill Lane, Pittsford.

His brother, Father Joseph F. Cloonan, was celebrant and another brother, Father Paul Cloonan, was deacon; a cousin, Rev. Theophane Larkin, O.F.M., was subdeacon of the Mass.

Mr. Cloonan was postmaster in Pittsford and president of the Holy Name Society of St. Louis Parish.

He is survived by his wife, Mary, a daughter, Michele Cloonan, his mother, Mrs. Catherine Cloonan of Pittsford; another brother, John Cloonan of Henrietta; three sisters, Sister Mary Corneilia of the Sisters of St. Joseph in Corning; Mrs. Jerome Scheg of Coldwater, and Mrs. Leon Jehlson of Henrietta.

Interment was in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery with Rev. Joseph Cloonan officiating, assisted by Reverend Fathers Paul Cloonan, Theophane Larkin, Richard Naangle, and James Callan.

He tied the need for reform to the President's program — not only to alleviate the effects of poverty but to eradicate the causes. "We cannot let any geographic area in our country or any phase of American endeavor remain outside the mainstream of American freedom of opportunity."

Citing President Johnson's civil rights, anti-poverty and medicare bills as part of the "courageous program to eradicate poverty," Msgr. Quinn testified that "scandalously, there is one large segment of our population which remains virtually untouched by the legislative help that is needed by any minority group which would catch up with the American promise. He referred to the American agricultural wage earner.

The U.S., he said, is the only country which "deliberately excludes" agricultural workers from social legislation. The priest noted that President Franklin D. Roosevelt had called for a minimum wage coverage embracing those "who toil in factory and on farm" in legislation 27 years ago. Only the factory workers, in 1938, benefited in resultant legislation.

The first bill in the five-bill package calls for minimum wage coverage for all farm workers, including migrants, many of whom had been imported from Latin American countries until a clampdown by Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz.

Msgr. Quinn said, "The bondage of poverty among migrant families frequently is self-perpetuating. Moving from place to place frequently not knowing the wages to be paid until they reach their destination, often denied health and welfare services, they have neither security nor the money to leave the migrant stream and give their children a decent education so that they, if not their parents, might enjoy and participate in the American way of life."

Feast Slated

Anthony Bax of Niagara Falls has accepted the appointment of chairman for the annual Coronation Feast which will be held on Sunday, Aug. 8 at Our Lady of Fatima Shrine, Youngstown, N.Y.

Bax has appointed co-chairmen Carmen Sofia from the Niagara Falls area, Larry Fontana from the Lockport area, and Mrs. Frances Godzan from the Buffalo area.

Elizabeth Hinch Last Rites Held

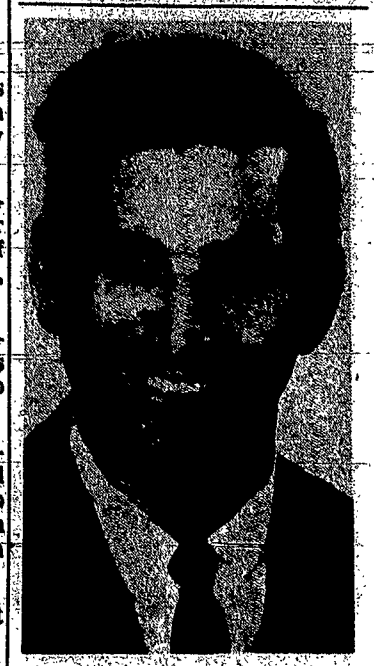

A former Rochesterian, Miss Elizabeth C. Hinch, 73, died in Santa Barbara, California, July 26, 1965.

Solemn funeral Mass was offered by her nephew, Father Francis Colborn, at Our Lady of Sorrows Church Wednesday, July 28.

Miss Hinch was active in parish societies at St. Patrick's Church, Rochester, prior to moving to California in 1956.

She is survived by two sisters, Miss Anne Colborn and Mrs. Mary Hand and by two nieces, Miss Melissa Colborn and Jude A. Blau, and by a nephew, Father Colborn.

Arrangements by McDermott Mortuary, Santa Barbara.

ANTHONY ROSATI

Rosati to Head Dinion Coil

After 15 years of absentee ownership, the ownership and management of the Dinion Coil Company, Incorporated of Caledonia returned to the local area. A Rochester-group announced that on 29 June 1965 negotiations were completed with the parent company, General Products Company of Providence, R.I. The negotiating team was headed by Anthony J. Rosati, Jr., 166 Pollard Ave., Rochester. Rosati has been elected President and Chairman partner in the law firm of Chamberlain, D'Amanda, Bauman, Chatman & Oppenheimer and Jerald J. Rotenberg, President of the CPA firm J. J. Rotenberg Co., also were on the negotiating team and have been elected directors of the new corporation.

The 25 year old corporation has its main plant and offices in the downtown area of Caledonia, N.Y. It is a leading manufacturer of quality transformers, electrical coils, electronic components for the computer, television and communications industry. It employs about 125-150 people.

All members of the new group are lifelong residents of Rochester.

Rosati has been Manager of Plans and Marketing of DINION. He is an alumnus of LeMoyne College and State University of New York. He has served in various functions in the Engineering Department of Eastman Kodak Co. and Stromberg Carlson Corp. He presently is also President of Castle Electronics Corporation, Canisteo, N.Y.; a member of the National Real Estate Holding Company (in Rochester) and The Charlotte Community Association.

He is active in affairs of Holy Cross Parish. With his wife Libbie and 5 children, he resides at 166 Pollard Ave., in Charlotte.

KC Repudiates Priest's Talk

Knights of Columbus have repudiated any official connection with a talk by "Traditionalist movement" Father Gomar DeFauw at an American Legion Knights of Columbus hall in Detroit early this month.

John W. McDevitt of New Haven, Conn., said the Detroit unit has no official link with the International Catholic men's organization of which he is supreme knight.

Charles S. Howard, an official of the Detroit group said this group hadn't sponsored the controversial priest — that the hall had been booked for "an individual member" for the talk in which Father DeFauw spoke against Vatican Council and U.S. bishops' directives on liturgy participation by the people.
