

Church's Cross in Modern World

'Burden of Conscience'

Atlanta — (NC) — The Church must bear the "burden of conscience" if it is to transform society in these days of moral indifference to racial and social justice.

Archbishop Paul J. Hallinan of Atlanta emphasized this in keynoting the Southern Catholic Leaders Conference on Social Change and Christian Response. Five bishops and several hundred priests, nuns and laymen in key positions in Southern dioceses attended the meeting, which included clinics and workshops specializing in various problems created by the Civil Rights Act and its impact in Southern communities.

The archbishop said the Church must be a catalyst. "Guided in moral deliberations by those commissioned to teach, sharing in the tedious as well as the imaginative areas of everyday life, God's people must initiate and quicken the question's response as a catalyst accelerates the change in a chemical process," he said.

What is needed, he continued, is dialogue — "conversational and formal, with other Christians and Jews, with Negroes and whites, with professionals and volunteers, with government at every level. Out of this will flow a twofold good: the ordained ministry can give moral direction at critical points, the laity can give themselves to every practical and proper venture. These will include voter registration, Operation Headstart, steps toward education, jobs and housing progress. "We cannot do everything at once," he cautioned. "Nor can we think of this grave and urgent task of the only task before us. But at the Southern Bishop said recently: 'The Catholic Church in the past has done in race relationships what she could. Now she can do more.'

"The chemical catalyst immerses itself to get the right reaction. Yes it engages unhurt and ready for more work. The Church will not do less."

The Church must also "bear the burden of conscience," the Atlanta prelate said. "It is not to get power or to project a fine image that religion appears on the picket lines. It is because religion has relevance to the tragic circumstances that called forth the demonstrations, the Church must stand on moral ground when it leads the conscience of its followers."

He also warned against using prudence "as an excuse for our failure to face facts, as a form of gradualism that is merely a cloak for inaction." . . . The American bishops proposed this question as a test of prudence: Are we sincerely and earnestly acting to solve these problems? Both the ragged segregationist and the rugged agitator should find common sense in that. It is litmus test for all. Is it the status quo or power or justice on the picket lines. It is because

Ribicoff Backs Federal Aid

Mississippi — (NC) — Sen. Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut said here that giving federal aid to children in nonpublic schools is "more than a question of fairness—it is an essential part of our country's educational system," Ribicoff told the annual convention of Citizens for Educational Freedom (July 31).

CEF is a non-sectarian nationwide citizens' organization devoted to securing equal treatment for students in both public and nonpublic schools in allocation of public funds.

Ribicoff, a former secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, pointed to the large numbers of children in nonpublic schools in many areas and said: "The expense of replacing the nonpublic system with comparable public schools staggers the imagination."

Nationwide, one out of every 10 students in U.S. elementary and secondary schools attends a nonpublic institution, and in some places the figure is far higher. There are more children in nonpublic schools in New York State, Ribicoff noted, than in public schools of each of 24 states; more children are in nonpublic schools in Chicago than in the public schools of Alaska, Delaware, Vermont and Wyoming combined.

"To deny that non public schools save American taxpayers enormous sums each year is nonsense," he said. "There is no question that the of the nonpublic school system significantly contributes to the maintenance of present standards in the public schools."

Ribicoff hailed passage of the elementary and secondary school aid act earlier this year as a major step forward in giving fair treatment to nonpublic school pupils.

Reviewing other proposals for education legislation, Ribicoff made a special appeal for legislation to provide tax credits for higher education costs, of which he is a sponsor.

Such a plan, he said, would provide "a measure of desperately needed relief to the middle income families of the nation."

"Our tax laws allow relief for investment in machinery, for medical expenses, for hurricane damage," he said. "Surely an investment in the education of our children is just as entitled to tax relief as investment in a new plant and equipment. Our country's future will be decided by young people, not by machines."

Group Wants Latin Mass

London — (NC) — The Latin Mass Society of Great Britain opposes a suggested compromise that the Mass be partly in Latin and partly in the vernacular.

A statement issued by the society states that it has decided to go ahead with its aim of seeking an all-Latin Mass "as an alternative to the vernacular Mass on all days on which there is more than one Mass."

Sir Arnold Lunn, society president and a convert, said: "Both the Latin Mass and the vernacular Mass meet real needs, and we, who do not seek to deprive the vernacularists of the type of Mass which they prefer, are perplexed by the ungenerous attitude of those who hope the Latin Mass will soon disappear."

"The Latin Mass is a precious link with home for the exile working in a foreign country. The intrusion of nationalism into our devotions is effectively prevented by the use of Latin. Many like to hear Mass in the language in which it was said and heard by martyrs, past and present."

THE HOLY FATHER'S MISSION AID TO THE ORIENTAL CHURCH

Touched by suffering they've seen, U.S. Air Force men gave nickels, dimes, quarters, dollars (total $65,000) for Pope Paul's program for the poor. . . . For only $10 the Pontifical Mission for Palestine feeds a refugee family for a month! As a token of our thanks, for each $10 gift, we'll send you an Olive Wood Rosary from the Holy Land. . . . In Kerala State, south India, Archbishop Mar Gregorios wants to set up in every parish a live-acre demonstration farm to show people how to improve food production. Each farm (backyard chicken coops included) will cost only $975. Like to grow a farm, or part of it? Youngsters in Kerala have only rice these days for breakfast, lunch and supper! The average family's income is less than $1 a week. Help us wipe out hunger!

An American housewife's week is worth $159.34, if you calculate the time she spends as cook, chauffeur, plumber, etc., according to a New York bank. . . . What's a native Sister worth? Day in day out she gives her life free-of-charge to the poor. To train a native Sister takes only two years, costs only $12.50 a month ($300 altogether). If you'd like to "adopt" a Sister-to-be, write to us. She will write to you, keep you informed of her progress.

In Nazareth, where Our Lord became a carpenter, Salesian Father Charles Peccot needs vocational-training scholarships ($275 each) for 13 Christian Arabs in their teens next month. Give one scholarship in your father's memory? Learning now how to support himself for life, the hard-working teenager will write to you, pray for you.

Yes, Mrs. McG, our missionary priests will offer Masses for your intention if you make this provision in your will. Our legal title: CATHOLIC NEAR EAST WELFARE ASSOCIATION. . . . The bequest you make "no strings attached" will be used where the Holy Father says it's needed most.
