Synagogues Hit in Wales

Cardiff, Wales — (NC) — Archbishop John Murphey of Cardiff has strongly condemned recent attacks on Jewish synagogues in the London area.

"Catholics like other Christians and right-minded citizens deeply deplore these manifestations of social and religious bigotry which we feel sure are the work of a maniac minority," the archbishop said. "To our out-and-out condemnation of these barbaric insults we add our sincere sympathy to our Jewish brethren in their tribulation and trial."

Nun, Back From Selma, Will Teach in Geneva

By JOHN WRIGHT, JR.

Selma, Alabama — Sister Alonzo, S.S.J., returned to her hometown of Geneva, New York this week where she has been assigned to teach third grade at St. Francis de Sales School after serving as Business Office Supervisor at Good Samaritan Hospital here for many years.

Sister Alonzo this month concluded her sixteenth year at a hospital which was founded in 1944 by the Edmundite Fathers to care for the Negro sick. It has been operated by the Sisters of St. Joseph of Rochester, New York since that time.

Daughter of Mrs. Veronica Bulanda, Geneva, New York and the late Peter Bulanda, Sister Alonzo recalls her early youth in Jacksosville, Ohio where her dad was a coal miner and she was the oldest of five children, all girls.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Bulanda were Polish immigrants to America. Sister said she learned to first speak English when she started to school.

Her dad read a want ad in a Polish language newspaper published in Milwaukee advertising a farm in Geneva. He saved his money, bought the farm and moved his family to Geneva.

Prior to coming to Selma in 1949, Sister Alonzo taught grade school at St. Augustine's, St. Anthony's and Blessed Sacrament parishes in Rochester, and St. Alphonsus in Auburn.

Sister Alonzo served more years at Good Samaritan than any other Sister of St. Joseph with the exception of Sister Louis Bertrand, S.S.J., the first administrator, who held that position for nineteen years.

A big difference can be noticed between the present Good Samaritan business office and it's related activities compared to when Sister Alonzo first took over her new duties in 1949. Then the business office staff consisted of three persons including herself and they worked in one small office.

Now there are more than fifteen persons in the business office to take care of insurance claims, medical records, admitting, financial arrangements and the many other details that have become a necessary part of modern hospital business office procedure.

"We didn't have anything like Social Security in those days," Sister Alonzo recalls. "There weren't as many group insurances and there were no welfare claims to fill out."

Sister Alonzo was recently honored at a farewell reception. The Sisters of St. Joseph and personnel at the hospital were hosts to the reception. More than 200 friends attended.

She has assisted hundreds of needy patients and their families in finding financial aid through county and state agencies who have funds for various groups of sick-poor.

A source of special enjoyment for Sister Alonzo during her sixteen years here has been the personal contact with both white and Negro people she has met, not only at Good Samaritan but in the community.

"It's been helpful," she added, "to exchange views with different people and to see how the other half of the world lives."

Her last week in Selma was a busy week for Sister Alonzo. After the reception Sunday, Sister was honored at a dinner. The next day was her "feast day" which she shared with Sister Liguori in a traditional luncheon at the hospital. Sister's birthday two days later called for another final going away party.

Sister Alonzo is gone now but she left behind a rich legacy of service to and friendship for the Selma community, both Negro and white.

A WARM HANDSHAKE — for Sister Alonzo, S.S.J., from Peter Maze oldest parishioner at St. Elizabeth's Mission in Selma. He attended the farewell reception in Sister Alonzo's honor.

Jail Doesn't Daunt Nuns

Chicago — (RNS) — Jail terms imposed on six Roman Catholic nuns on traffic obstruction charges growing out of a civil rights demonstration here will not discourage future racial justice activities by their counterparts, according to a Catholic race leader.

Richard J. Walsh, president of the Catholic Interracial Council of Chicago, commented: "I don't think this will hurt in the least. I think we'll see even more activity by nuns in the future."

The six white members of the Daughters of Charity were ordered to the Chicago House of Correction after telling a magistrate they could not pay their fines because "any money that comes to us must go to help the poor."

They were not jailed, however. Two Negro lawyers, who had no connection with the case, heard of the sentencing and paid $126 to free the nuns.

Cardinal Visits Historic Site

Lafayette, La. — (RNS) — An historical affiliation with the Province of Quebec, Canada, was emphasized here during the visit of Maurice Cardinal Roy, Archbishop of Quebec and Primate of Canada.

Cardinal Roy accepted the invitation of Bishop Maurice Schexnayder of Lafayette to preside Aug. 15 at the religious observance here of the bicentennial of Acadian culture in Louisiana.

At the time of the arrival of the Acadians, in 1765, Louisiana was still under the ecclesiastical jurisdiction of the Province of Quebec.

Enters Dominicans

A Rochester young woman was among 23 to receive the Dominican Sister's habit at ceremonies in St. Catharine Motherhouse, St. Catharine, Kentucky. She is Kathleen Flynn, now Sister Mary Blaise, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Flynn of St. John the Evangelist Parish, Rochester.

Mother Walks To Holy Land

Paris — (NC) — A mother of five children has set out from France on foot for Jerusalem.

Mrs. Troczynski had made a vow that if her seven-year-old son were cured of a chronic sickness, she would make this pilgrimage.

She intends to travel about 28 miles each day and sleep in convents. Her baggage will be carried by a donkey. Her children are situated in a home in Normandy.
