Auburn Schools Discuss Federal, State Programs

Auburn — Representatives of the Auburn Public-Parochial Advisory Committee met this week at Mount Carmel High School to discuss new ways of using federal

Joseph P. Cuddy, a board member said that Auburn was unique "in that it has a Catholic school board." He said this will make implementation of the various program easier "and we are fortunate to have this situation."

Andrews said that Auburn may qualify for between $75,000 and $122,000 under Title I of the ESEA. Title I is designated to meet special educational needs of educationally and financially deprived children.

Attending the first meeting of the newly organized group were Sister Joseph Gilmory, S.S.J., principal of St. Mary's School; Sister Rose Gertrude, S.S.J., principal of St. Albans School; Ralph Getty, M.D., member of the Auburn school board; Urban Faubion and Robert Holman of the Catholic school board; John Hilbert, Central High principal; Holmes coordinator; Mrs. Clark and Mr. Sullivan, elementary curriculum Andrews.

The next meeting of the committee is scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 25.
