

Battle Against Poverty

Washington—(RNS)—A new two-year, $7 million anti-poverty program initiated by the Roman Catholic Diocese of Natchez-Jackson in Mississippi was described here by Sargent Shriver, Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) director, as "the nation's boldest" effort of its kind.

The project, which has been approved by Gov. Paul B. Johnson of Mississippi and is to start immediately, is aimed at benefiting 100,000 poor Mississippians and will have as its prime objective the training and employment of 25,000 adults now considered unemployed.

Announcing the program, Mr. Shriver said it "could well serve as an example to other states" and added:

"We cannot measure in dollars the value of reduced human misery, but the economic implications of Mississippi's program are tremendous. By transforming 25,000 families from tax liabilities to self-sustaining citizens, it could save the taxpayers a billion or more dollars in direct welfare payments over 20 years."

Headquartered in Jackson, the program will be administered by Star, Inc., a non-profit corporation initiated by the Natchez-Jackson diocese.

Eighteen regional centers were being established throughout the state, with the Catholic diocese making facilities available for offices and classrooms and providing staff workers.

OEO officials pointed out that though Catholic facilities will be widely used, the poor will be aided regardless of their religion or race. In each regional area local advisory committees were being formed, employing as many local persons as possible.

Auxiliary Bishop Joseph B. Brunini of Natchez-Jackson serves as president of the interracial administrative corporation and directors include Bishop Richard O. Gerow and other diocesan officials. Also on the board are representatives of the business, labor and legal communities and a Baptist minister, the Rev. R.L.T. Smith.

A basic objective of the program will be to seek out the unemployed poor, including those who are not easily accessible, and encourage them to enroll in the training course.

Wales Couple, Say 'Cymeraf'

Cardiff—(NC)—The bride and groom both answered "Cymeraf" instead of "I do" as Welsh was used for the first time in the celebration of a wedding Mass in the Cardiff archdiocese.

Both the bride and groom—the former Miss L. Harries and Dr. Harri Pritchard, a psychiatrist—are converts to the Catholic Church. The Mass in Welsh was celebrated in St. Tello's church here by Father Donald Mullins, secretary to Archbishop John Murphy of Cardiff.

More Nuns For Colleges

New York—(NC)—A bishop recommended here the greater use of nuns in the Newman Apostolate as associates to chaplains faced with burgeoning numbers of Catholic students enrolling at secular campuses.

Bishop Ernest J. Primeau of Manchester, N.H., speaking at the banquet of the National Newman Chaplains Association held here in conjunction with the golden jubilee congress of the National Newman Student Federation said the Newman Apostolate "is not being adequately served by reason of the scarcity of priests and the part-time character of the service of most of those who have the title of chaplain."

"We are in midst of an explosive growth of the number of Catholic students on non-Catholic campuses," the bishop said. "And the Church's mission must do its utmost to provide for these students, the future leaders of our society."
