

Sacrifice, Key To Vocations

Aurora, Ill. — (NC) — Religious communities should stress the element of sacrifice in explaining themselves to prospective candidates, 100 vocation directors were told here.

"Tell them the religious life is a hard life," advised Father John W. Stafford, C.S.V., a former psychology professor who is now provincial of the Viatorian Fathers.

"All this is not incidental to it or accidental to it, mere spots that hardly diminish its splendor and glow of happiness," he said. "All this is of the very essence of the religious life. It is not a life with sacrifice, it is a life of sacrifice."

Father Stafford spoke to the first annual meeting of the Midwest Religious Vocation Directors Association. Vocation directors from 57 religious communities attended.

He maintained that mature young persons in their late teens are capable of responding to the call of sacrifice.

5 Year Plan Launched In Brazil

Rio De Janeiro — (NC) — A five-year plan to revitalize the Catholic Church in Brazil and to implement decisions of the Second Vatican Council is under study by the National Conference of Brazilian Bishops.

The plan is outlined in a proposed joint pastoral that the Brazilian prelates are studying at special meetings while they are in Rome for the council.

"Our objective is to renew the Church in Brazil, conforming to the images of the Church of Vatican Council II," states the first draft of the document which the bishops are now studying.

Fundamental lines of work of the Church in Brazil for the next five years as outlined in the proposed pastoral would be:

- To promote a fuller and more visible unity within the Catholic Church itself; promote missionary action; promote catechesis; deepen study of Catholic doctrine among the laity; give more effort to deepening knowledge of theology; promote liturgical action; promote ecumenical action; promote the more active participation of the faithful, as a ferment, in the construction of the world according to the designs of God.

The document also cites the bishops' determination to intensify research and planning as a basis of action to overcome the serious social, pastoral and educational problems facing the Brazilian church.

Millenium Of Faith In Poland

Rome — (NC) — Catholics of Polish descent throughout the world have been urged to mark the 1,000th anniversary of Christianity in Poland by holding celebrations on a local, national and world level.

A letter outlining a program for next year's celebrations was issued here by Auxiliary Bishop Wladyslaw Rubin of Warsaw, ecclesiastical delegate for Poles in exile.

The letter urges that Poles observe the beginning and end of the Holy Year with Masses on New Year's Eve. They are encouraged to hold solemn religious services on Holy Saturday, April 9, and to organize national and parish festivities.

Two international pilgrimages are planned during the year. The principal one will bring hundreds of thousands of persons to the shrine of Our Lady of Czestochowa in Poland on May 9, 1968. One week later, Polish exiles from all parts of the world will converge on Rome for five days, May 12-16.

'Black Market' Adoptions Hit

Philadelphia — (RNS) — Congress was urged by the National Conference of Catholic Charities here to approve pending legislation designed to curb interstate "black market" adoptions of babies.

In a resolution passed at its 51st annual meeting, the NCCC said Congress must enact a law which would "encourage couples to adopt children and would result in more children having families."

As cleared earlier this year by the Senate Judiciary Committee, the bill would provide federal criminal penalties for those convicted of interstate trafficking for profit of children for adoption or for permanent free care.

The NCCC also hailed the Salvation Army on its 100th anniversary as "one of our traditional partners in the service of people in need."

Art Treasures

Notre Dame — (NC) — The University of Notre Dame's Mediaeval Institute will microfilm and photograph centuries old art treasures at the famed Ambrosian Library in Milan beginning in mid-October.

The idea of microfilming the Ambrosian collection was conceived in 1960 when Pope Paul VI, as Cardinal Montini of Milan, came to Notre Dame to receive an honorary doctorate. After visiting the Mediaeval Institute with Notre Dame's president, Father Theodore M. Hesburgh, C.S.C., he offered to assist in obtaining permission to microfilm the collection for use by American scholars.

Population Expert To Keynote Meeting

Kansas City — (NC) — Father Stanislaus de Lestapis, S.J., internationally known sociologist and specialist in population, will give the keynote address at the Second International Symposium on Rhythm here Dec. 2-4.

Father de Lestapis, director of the Institute Social de l'Action Populaire in Paris, will speak on "Rhythm and the Christian Concept of Marriage to an audience of physicians, priests, family life workers and others."

The symposium, to be held in the Muehlebach Hotel, will be sponsored by the Family Life Bureau of the National Catholic Welfare Conference and the National Federation of Catholic Physicians' Guilds.

The first international rhythm symposium was held in Washington, D.C., in October, 1964.

Purpose of the conference here, according to a spokesman, "is to bring together the latest findings on periodicity of birth regulation, from theology, philosophy, and the physical and social sciences."
