

Jesuit General in Egypt

Cairo, Egypt—(RNS)—Father Pedro Arrupe, S.J., general of the Society of Jesus (right) is shown as he distributed Holy Communion in Cairo's Church of the Holy Family. The church was jammed with parishioners for the Mass celebrated by the Spanish-born Jesuit head during a visit to Cairo. He was believed to be the order's first general to leave Rome headquarters for a visit to African and Near East countries. Father Arrupe toured many of the Catholic communities in Egypt.

Basilian Father Udall To Leave Aquinas Post

Father Cyril R. Udall, C.S.B., director of the award-winning Aquinas Institute school's music department, will leave his post at the end of the academic year, it was announced today. Father Udall has been appointed to do special work in the field of music for the Basilian Fathers' community by Very Rev. Joseph C. Wey, C.S.B., superior general. Father Udall will remain at Aquinas until early in July according to Father Leon G. Hart, C.S.B., principal of the local Basilian Fathers' high school.

FATHER UDALL

He praised Father Udall's "tremendously effective leadership" over the past years. Father Hart pointed out that under Father Udall's leadership the music department of Aquinas has strengthened its programs, providing musical experiences for more students than ever before. "Equally important," Father Hart continued, "plans have been made for further strengthening the music department's programs, faculty and resources."

Father Udall became head of the Aquinas music department in 1954, succeeding Raymond J. Hasenauer. Previously he taught at St. Thomas High School in Houston, Texas and Assumption High School in Windsor, Ont.

He holds the B.A. degree (cum laude) from the University of Western Ontario and was awarded the prize in psychology by Assumption College. He received an A.R.T.C. degree from the Toronto Conservatory of Music and the Master of Music degree from the Eastman School of Music. Presently he is a doctoral candidate in music education from the Eastman School.

Under Father Udall's direction, the Aquinas Institute Marching Band has received national acclaim. In 1963 the

Kearney High Hosts Freshmen Debate Meet

The third annual Bishop Kearney High School Invitational Debate Tournament, scheduled for Saturday, Feb. 26, will draw twenty-six teams from sixteen schools in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. They will be competing for the Bishop James E. Kearney Debate Trophy.

About thirty orators will be trying to capture the Brother J. M. Clark Speech Trophy. In all, twenty-one awards will be presented.

This is one of the few "freshmen-only" tournaments in N.Y.S. and has grown over the last few years to be the largest. The purpose of the tournament, according to Marc Zicari, Director of Forensics at Bishop Kearney, "is to give freshmen debaters and speakers a varsity level tournament to reward them for the Aquinas band was chosen as the top band in New York State and received the Nelson B. Rockefeller trophy. The same year the band performed before millions on television as it marched in the famed Macy's Christmas parade in New York City.

In recent years Father Udall has conducted the band on tours throughout the east, including concerts in Detroit, Cleveland, Toronto, Buffalo and New York. At Easter of this year the band will travel to Washington, D.C. for the Cherry Blossom Festival. The Aquinas band was one of the first high school bands to perform at the New York World's Fair. On that occasion Father Udall offered Mass at the Vatican Pavilion for the members of the band and officials of the Fair.

Active in drum corps work, Father Udall has arranged numerous works for local groups. He currently holds office as a director in the Western New York Drum Corps and Band Association. Father Udall is also one of the few priests in the country who is a member of the All-American Judges Association and is fully qualified to judge drum corps and band competition.

In addition to his music courses and band activity, Father Udall introduced a course in appreciation of the fine arts which has met with considerable popularity among Aquinas students. He personally prepared hundreds of film slides to show to his students.

"At the present time we are not prepared to name a successor to Father Udall as head of the music department," Father Hart said. Presumably it will be a layman since no priest has been appointed from the Basilian Community to fill the position.

Better Dead Than Red?

Lad Prefers Monastery

Rome—(RNS)—Aldo Togliatti, whose father, Palmiro Togliatti, was for many years Italy's top Communist leader, is preparing to enter a Roman Catholic religious order here, it was learned.

He was reported making a spiritual retreat in a Benedictine monastery at Subiaco, near Rome, before donning the habit of a lay Brother.

Aldo's religious vocation, it was said, first became apparent in 1963 when he left his mother's home in Rome to enter a monastery at Civitavecchia. However, his parents persuaded him to return to civilian life, at least temporarily.

Subsequently he placed himself under the spiritual guidance of a well-known Jesuit theologian and finally decided to enter the monastery at Subiaco.

Palmiro Togliatti died in the summer of 1964 while on a vacation in the Soviet Union. In a remarkable statement written shortly before his death, he declared that communism's "old atheistic propaganda is of no use."

"The very problem of the religious conscience, of its contents, of its roots among the masses, and of the way of overcoming it," he said, "must be posed in a different way than in the past if we are to have access to the Catholic masses and be understood by them."

"If not, our 'outstretched hand' to the Catholics will be regarded as a pure expedient and almost as hypocrisy."

When the body of the 71-year-old long-time head of the Italian Communist Party was returned in a Soviet airliner from Moscow for burial here, L'Observatore Romano, the Vatican City newspaper asked Catholics to pray for his soul.

In a brief editorial, it voiced hope that the death of this man "of singular personality" would lead Italian members of the Communist Party to "look beyond this earth."

Father Bertin Roll Speaks at Hornell Meet

HORNELL — "Give your children a childhood," Father Bertin Roll, O.F.M., Cap., national director of the Archconfraternity of Christian Mothers, told nearly 100 parents Friday evening.

Father Roll, director of the Archconfraternity's national district headquarters in Pittsburgh, Pa., spoke at a general meeting in the Knights of Columbus Home on River St. His appearance in Hornell was sponsored by the Steuben Deanery of the National Council of Catholic Women.

"Don't make adults of your children," Father Bertin said. "Don't let them grow up too quickly. Leave the boy-girl parties out of grammar school entirely."

He added that "early dating parties led to early dating, early marriages and, too often, early divorce."

Father Roll was introduced by Miss Josephine FitzGerald, Steuben Deanery president. At the meeting were Father John L. Coonan, spiritual director of the Steuben Deanery, and Father Gerald T. Connor, assistant pastor of St. Ann's Church.

James F. Hanrahan, recruitment chairman of the Lenten discussion groups to be held in St. Ann's parish, spoke on the purpose of the study sessions. He extended an invitation to all present to attend the weekly meetings "to become better informed on the liturgy of the Church."

E. A. Quigley Requiem Held

Funeral Mass for Edward A. Quigley, 37 Thorndale Ter., was held on Jan. 28 in St. Augustine's Church. Mr. Quigley died Jan. 25, 1966.

Father Michael Reagan offered the Requiem Mass. Father John Y. Rosse and Father Francis Donoghue were present in the sanctuary.

Mr. Quigley was born in Auburn. A former trumpeter with dance bands and a printer for 30 years, he belonged to the Typographical Union, the Liederkranz Club and the Holy Name Society of St. Augustine's Church.

Survivors include his widow, Rose-Lee Densmore Quigley; four sons, Gerald J., Edward B., and John Patrick of Rochester; and Mark P., with the Navy; two brothers, William and Brian; and four sisters, Bernice Quigley, Mrs. Ida Pugley, Sarah Quigley and Bernice Quigley.

Father Donoghue, assisted by Father Reagan, gave the blessing at the grave in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery.
