Mercy Sister Wins $3000 Grant For Science Study

A Sister of Mercy of Rochester, who was a former Nazareth Academy graduate, State Scholarship winner, and two times a National Science Foundation (NSF) Award recipient, has been awarded a $3,000 grant and a full year of study in Earth Sciences at Cornell University. It was announced last week by Hugh F. Mulligan, Associate Director of the Academic Year Institute at Cornell.

Sister Mary Stephen Schur, R.S.M., presently a teacher of General Science, Earth Science and Religion III at Cardinal Mooney High School was chosen for this full-tuition grant and stipend by the Advisors of the A.Y.I. at Cornell. The year of study leads to a Master of Science for Teachers degree.

Sister received her B.S. in Education from Nazareth College of Rochester in 1962 and has since taken a graduate course in Astronomy on an NSF In-Service Grant at the University of Rochester. Sister also spent the summer of 1964 on an

Marine Midland Elects President

The election of Hartwell P. Morse, Jr. as president and director, and Benjamin P. Rial as a senior vice president, of Marine Midland Trust Company of Southern New York, Elmira, was announced recently by Charles A. Winding, chairman of the board.

Books Sandwiched

The first of a series of "Books Sandwiched In," sponsored by the junior English classes at Notre Dame High School, was held Monday, February 21. J. D. Sallinger's "Franny and Zooey" was the topic of discussion.

Class Visits Villa

On Tuesday, February 2, class instructor in sociology at St. Agnes High School, Sr. Elaine Theresa, invited as guest speaker Mrs. Wlockowski of the Catholic Family Center, the case work agency of the Catholic Charities, to reinforce her students' textbook information with first-hand practical knowledge. Mrs. Wlockowski described her work mentioning in particular St. Joseph's Villa.

Sister Agnes James, a house mother at the Villa will address this group on Monday afternoon, March 7, informing them about her work with the boys at St. Joseph's Villa.

Culminating these talks will be a field trip — an actual tour of St. Joseph's Villa, which will take place Tuesday afternoon, March 8, and will be guided by Sister Theophane of the Villa staff.

St. Agnes Editors

Eleven editors and junior editors of The Palm, St. Agnes High School's magazine, yearbook, and their moderator, Sister M. Marcella, attended the regional Catholic School Press Association Conference at Mount Saint Joseph Academy, Buffalo, on Feb. 26.

Co-sponsored by the Buffalo Courier-Express, Canisius High School and Mount Saint Joseph Academy, the conference treated newspaper, yearbook and magazine aspects of high school journalism.

Professor Albion Ross of Marquette's College of Journalism, National Headquarters of CSPA, addressed the 700 young writers, keynoting the day with a discussion of self-government and public affairs reporting. The afternoon was highlighted by a student press interview of Lucian C. Warren, Washington correspondent for the Courier-Express, and an expert in Viet Nam news.

After their talks, Judy and Lucia will discuss the differences they have noticed between Europe and America.

St. Agnes Students End '66 Magazine Campaign

Two weeks equals $26,800 when the salesmen are students of St. Agnes High School and the project is the sale of magazines for their annual Decency in Reading campaign. The results assure St. Agnes retention of leadership in the promotion of worthwhile periodical reading in upper New York State.

Leading the classes throughout the campaign were the seniors, who soared to a grand total of 137% of their goal and captured the title of school champions. A close second were the juniors, who attained 122%.

Winners in the homeroom competition were also members of the senior and junior classes. Highest was senior homeroom 210 who, led by Mary Alletto and Sue Bagley, and moderated by Sister Ann de Porres,

Future Teachers

Sister Mariana, Placement Director and Assistant in Guidance at Nazareth College of Rochester will serve as consultant on a Future Teachers Club panel at Nazareth Academy March 6-7.

The panel will investigate the theme of the club: "Teacher Training Opportunities in New York State." They will propose questions on state certification requirements for teaching, college programs for high school and elementary school teacher preparation, loans and grants applying especially to teacher training, and job opportunities in the Rochester area. Club members will ask additional questions provoked by the discussion.

Tops at DeSales

James Rickey, senior at De Sales High in Geneva, was the highest-scoring Regents scholarship winner in his school this year. Other De Sales students who won Regents grants are: Florence Murphy, Susan Klein and Jacqueline Maley.

Family Basketball

On Parents' Night, Sunday, March 6, the annual game between Mercy High juniors and seniors will be played at 7:30 p.m. The evening is staged for the benefit of parents who have a daughter on either basketball team.

The highlight of the night will be a skirmish at halftime between the junior and senior fathers who will play each other in a ten minute game.

Assembly Speakers

Lucia Colla and Judy Plante will be the speakers at the Student Government Association assembly at Our Lady of Mercy High School on March 7, according to Barbara Siro, SGA president.

Lucia, an Italian student studying at Mercy through the Catholic Student Exchange Program, will speak on her native country. Judy, a senior who attended the London Student Conference in December, will relate the experiences she had while living in England for two weeks.

After their talks, Judy and Lucia will discuss the differences they have noticed between Europe and America.
