Missions, Boxers -- Both Gain From Annual Bouts

The annual Mission Bouts sponsored by Aquinas Institute will be held at the Dewey Avenue school this year on March 26 in the school gymnasium.

Mission bouts have been a regular event at Aquinas for the past twenty-nine years, with the proceeds going to Aquinas graduates working in the mission fields throughout the world. Over the years the bouts have contributed thousands of dollars to Catholic missions in South America, Africa, Asia and the United States.

Frank "Hunk" Vadas, who is in charge of whipping the fighters into shape, feels that the bouts have two-direction benefits—not only do the Missions gain, but also the boys.

"These bouts really make men out of the boys," Hunk says. "I think that's the real satisfaction I see in my work with the kids. We've noticed at Aquinas that the boys who fight in the Mission Bouts are among the best behaved in the school—real gentlemen."

Aquinas is one of the few schools in the entire country which has a boxing program. Rules are strict and safety measures are stressed. Each boxer is subjected to a medical examination before training begins. According to Father Cyril F. Carter, C.S.B., Aquinas Athletic Director, there has never been a serious injury in the history of the Bouts.

Among the defending champions returning will be Bill

Balley who won the Art Tele-risco Trophy last year as the outstanding freshman fighter of the bouts and John White who shared the best fight of the night award.

Father Michael Biondi, C.S.B., is moderator of the boxing program. —Whit Johnson
