Jesuit Priest 'Commends' Vietnam War Policy

Washington — (NC) — A priest authority on southeast Asia affairs told the House Foreign Affairs Committee here the U.S. policy in Vietnam "is basically correct."

"It is not only justifiable, it is morally commendable," Jesuit Father Daniel Lyons told the legislators. "It is a combination of Christian charity and enlightened self-defense. In the past we failed to apply the Truman Doctrine to Asia, except for South Korea. The failure had led to our problems there today."

Father Lyons, now on leave from Gonzaga University, Spokane, Wash., is director of the Free Pacific Association and founder of the Asian Speakers Bureau with headquarters in New York. He makes frequent trips to southeast Asia. Five other members of the speakers bureau testified before the committee investigating the Vietnam and Asian situation — Stephen C. Y. Pan of New York; Father Raymond J. de Jaeger from Formosa; Stefan Possony of Stanford University; and Maj. Gen. Thomas A. Lane, U.S. Army, retired, of this city.
