We directors of The Society for the Propagation of the Faith are beggars. This is our vocation. We are the Lazaruses of the world seated at the gates of the rich, showing the sores and leprosy of the Missions to all who eat well and are clothed in purple. We are the boats into which the Lord steps to visit the Geresenes and to preach to the multiludes. We are the Simons of Cyrene who have been commendeered into service to help Christ carry the burden of His Cross in space and time. A pastor has his parish, a bishop has his diocese, but the world our parish. And what a parish! We know 'hat i' non-evangeli ed started a procession in front of the Propaganda building in Rome, and wa'ked day and night single file, second by second, it would take them 30 years to pass. We know, too, that if the hungry and the impoverished could walk around the carth-over school as well as land, they would encircle this planet 25 times. Wo are the publicans of the Church, the tax collectors, the lineal descendants of those who begged for Rome outside of Rome - the tax collectors of the Propagation of the Like Gaut, the mission of the Church is dividedin three parts: 1) Those who produce 2) those who distribute and 3) those who receive. A'l three are mentioned in the sixth chapter of St. John's Gospel.

Who produces? We Directors of The Society for the Propagation of the Fa'th are like the boy who produced the basketful of loaves and fishes, except that our baskets are filled with francs, lire, pesetas, shillings, marks and dollars. Who distributes? The Congregation of the Propaganda distributes. Like the 12 apostles, it hands out our loaves and fishes to the hundreds of thousands on the billsides of Africa, Asia, Oceania and elsewhere. Who receives? The missionaries are the receivers. They apply each year to the Propaganda for their quota of bread and fishes. But the supply is soon exhausted. Later, like the multitude, they cross the lake looking for more.

-For this triple service, there were triple satisfactions or blessings in the Gospel for the Lord is never outdone in charity. The apostles, after having distributed the bread and fishes, each received a reward: there were 12 baskets given to them, one for each. Next the receivers, too, were pleased for each one, the Gospel tells us, "had his fill." But what about the boy who had the basket loaded with provisions? We do not even know if he got his basket back. Was he the only one who went away disappointed that day? No! The Gospel tells us "that Jesus took the lcaves, looked up to heaven and gave thanks." Of the three, the boy was the one who expressly was described as giving to Our Lord. The distributors received the food from the Lord; the receivers took their food from the disciples, but the boy gave to the Lord. He did not receive, he gave; and his gift became the occasion for the announcement of the Eucharist. Ours is, therefore, a Eucharistic work. As sacristans of the missionary Church, we give bread for the paten, wine for the chalice, loaves and fishes for the hungry. Jesus takes and thanks, And, only one chapter later in Matthew, there is another multiplication of loaves and fishes. It must be that the Lord sent the boy home with his empty basket, to fill it up again. So out to the highways and byways we go as beggars. At times it is very difficult; there is much opposition and want of sympathy. Even when we give all we have, it is asked: "What are these among so many?" Butover riding them all is the supreme consolation, namely, it is the Lord Who takes from us. It is the Lord Who thanks. It is the Lord who says, "God Love You!"

GOD LOVE YOU to M.S. for $250. "When I looked... around our house at our abundance of everything and thought about the poor and starving, I had to send at least this." . . . to Anon for a pearl ring "This is all my poor father left me. I hope ther is value in it for Christ's poor. I would rather have it feed them than adorn me."

When begging for Christ, we ask not just for money but any valuables that can be sold and the money given to the poor. So send us your old gold and jewelry - the bracelet or diamond ring you no longer wear, last year's gold eyeglass frames, the cuff links you never liked anyway. Your semi-precious or precious stones will be win-ning precious souls for Christ. Our address: The Society for the Propagation of the Faith, 366 Fifth Avenue, New
