Fisher Promotions Given To Valenti, Mrs. Zenkel

Two administrative promotions at St. John Fisher College have been announced by Very Rev. Charles J. Lavery, C.S.B., president. Joseph A. F. Valenti, 359 French Rd., Pittsford, has been advanced to assistant dean of the college.

Mrs. Margaret Zenkel, 2113 East Ave., has been named supervisor of the Data Processing Center. In making the appointments, Father Lavery announced that Valenti would assume responsibility for curriculum development at the college and that Mrs. Zenkel would coordinate all Data Processing Center activities.

Valenti, who will continue to assist Father Joseph B. Dorsey, C.S.B., dean of the college, began at Fisher as assistant registrar in January 1964. He was advanced to the assistant's post in the dean's office last September.

He also has taught business administration courses and currently is director of the Fisher Summer Session. He is a graduate of St. Michael's College in the University of Toronto and of St. John's University School of Law.

Mrs. Zenkel, a two-year employee at Fisher, will serve as assistant to Richard Pegis, director of the Data Processing Center.

Nuns Told - Change or Die

Milwaukee — (NC) — "Religious orders who don't change will die out — either they change or die."

This warning was given to nuns attending the Institute on Woman at Alverno College by Augustinian Father Gregory Baum, a consultant to the Vatican Secretariat for Promoting Christian Unity.

Father Baum called particularly for self-evaluation by communities and structural changes to further Christian fellowship and unity among members.

"It would seem," he said, "that religious life was meant to create a spirit of fellowship and unity. From this would follow that communities should have a more democratic form of government in which all would have a voice in policy making. This ideal is shown in the teaching of the Council where we read of collegiality and dialogue."

Breakfast Set In Macedon

Macedon — Men and Boys Communion and breakfast will be held at St. Patrick's Church following the 8 a.m. Mass on Sunday, July 17.

Ed Nietowski, sports director at Cardinal Mooney high school, will be guest speaker.

Breakfast will be served by ladies of the parish. Father Eugene H. McFarland is pastor.

Father Baum said that too often members of religious orders, and even diocesan priests, are not "emotionally free of the institutions" and have a fear of speaking out and even a fear of the superior himself.

To counteract this, Father Baum suggested that members strive for open conversation.

Novena Set At St. Anne's

A novena for the feast of St. Anne will be held at St. Anne's Church, 1600 Mt. Hope Ave., Rochester, July 18 to 26, each evening at 7:45 p.m.

Holy Cross Father Edward J. Hartnett will conduct the novena services which will include a blessing with a relic of St. Anne, mother of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

Monsignor William Naughton, pastor of St. Anne's Church, said leaflets with the novena prayers will be available to all who attend. He also said the parish has ample parking facilities and the church is air conditioned.

Masses during the novena will be at 6, 7, 7:30 and 8 a.m.

develop a greater sense of community.

"There will always be religious in the Church," he continued. "I don't know why, but God's theology is hard to figure out. Religious life will be a part of the Church because God continues to call people to this state."

But this does not lessen the obligation for renewal, he warned, "because the members of the communities must think of the future and permanency of their institution and the means to perpetuate it. This can only be achieved through unity and conversation."

Belfast, N. Ireland — self-styled moderator of the Ulster Volunteer Force, an ultra-extremist group, banned by the North Ireland government on charges of violence against Roman Catholics.

Kick the Pop Orange Bait

Belfast, N. Ireland — Force, an ultra-extremist group, banned by the North Ireland government on charges of violence against Roman Catholics.

Within a period of two weeks, two persons were killed, other shot, one stabbed and burned. Five Protestants — jailed on charges of murder and were reported to have gone on hunger strike in protest. They were expected to be arranged under emergency regulations passed in 1972 signed at the time against the Ulster Volunteer Force.

The outlawed organization was reportedly led by the Ian Paisley, moderator of the Free Presbyterian Church, he had denied any connection with the Ulster Volunteer Force. His organization, he said, is the Ulster Constitution Force, which has branches all over Northern Ireland known as the Ulster Volunteer Divisions.

After Premier Terence O'Neill, in an address to parliament, had named the Ulster Volunteer Force as a terrorist organization, Mr. Paisley said the government to use its powers against him.

"Let Mr. O'Neill try it," he said, "and he will see that the people of Ulster will never rest until O'Neill is removed from office."

In his address to parliament, O'Neill said the ban on the Ulster Volunteer Force, which has shown no mercy, no respect for old laws, and that it was a "conspiracy" "prepared at time to use murder as a weapon," he added: "This we will not tolerate."

Many Church leaders in Ireland joined in denouncing the killings. A statement issued by the Very Rev. Dr. Alfred tin, moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Ireland, the Rev. A. J. Weir, of the Assembly, said: "The acts are contrary to all Christian principles and teachings and we appeal to our people to join in prayer for the victims and for the peace of the country."
