Thru The Looking Glass

Fashion Air Lift

By LOUISE WILSON

LOUISE WILSON, Women's Editor, is heard 11 times weekly on station WHAM: 9:10 and 9:25 a.m., Monday through Friday; 9:30 a.m. Saturday.

When I was a little girl attending the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto with my sister and parents each year, the highlight of each visit was the viewing of the bigger-than-life size cow carved from butter.

Now I'm grown up, the most exciting part of the C.N.E. is the Fashion Theatre of the Queen Elizabeth Building where a dozen or so fashion shows are presented each day beginning at 1 p.m. and continuing with Fashion Air Lift presented nightly at 9.

This is an hour long trip to the couture capitals of the world. The garments range from bathing suits to formal evening wear personally chosen by Elsa Jenkins, manager of women's activities at the Canadian National Exhibition.

It all began many months ago when Mrs. Jenkins with a wardrobe from top Canadian designers flew first to Dublin, birthplace of Donegal tweed suits and coats, Galway knitwear and beautiful hand-crocheted evening gowns.

According to Elsa Jenkins, "I make up my wardrobe from the top Canadian designs to show Irish couturiers what Canadian fashion houses were producing. With only five days in Dublin, I had a busy time making difficult decisions which of the many exciting outfits to select to be shown at our own Exhibition back home in Toronto.

"I finally decided on 18 outfits to show on our Fashion Theatre runway. At the end of the Ex, they'll be returned to the fashion houses that loaned them to complete the international fashion exchange."

Priests Give To Episcopal Inner City Fund

Washington — (NC) — Two Washington priests contributed to the inner-city mission program of the Episcopal diocese of Washington after an Episcopal parish halved its donation to protest the diocese's social programs.

The two priests were Father Geno C. Baroni, executive secretary of the Archbishop's Committee on Community Relations, and Father Andre Bouchard, assistant pastor of St. Paul and Augustine church.

Father Baroni said he had a long and close relationship with Suffragan Bishop Paul Moore, whose activities were the basis for the criticism and the reduced donation by All Souls Memorial Episcopal church. The bishop is a strong supporter of the civil rights movement and backs home rule for the District of Columbia.

"I never thought I would be making a contribution to an Episcopal mission fund," said Father Baroni in a letter accompanying his check. "Nevertheless, I wish to show my support for the program and policies of the diocese because they affect us and promote the common good of the entire community."

He praised Bishop Moore's work as "a witness to the service of the church of Christ for the first citizens of the church, the poor."

The Legion of Mary

As A Member Views It

By STEVE HUDICK

(This is the fourth in a series on the Legion of Mary in the Diocese of Rochester. Today's article, by Steve Hudick of Waterloo, tells how one Legionary feels about his membership in this apostolic group.)

From the lips of Jesus, from the teachings of our Holy Mother the Church, come the commands and challenges obligating us to apostleship.

"As the Father has sent me, I also send you..."

"Go ye, out into the world and preach the gospel to every creature..."

These commands and challenges are made clearer yet by the saints. St. John Chrysostom said, "I have never succeeded in persuading myself that anyone could achieve salvation who has never done anything for the salvation of his brethren."

After five years in the Legion of Mary, I am convinced that for me, this is the best vehicle to fulfill the responsibility of apostleship.

The Legion has changed my outlook on life. I find myself trying to be a Catholic twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week, instead of just an hour on Sunday.

I find myself with a greater realization of and sympathy with the problems of our priests, and take pride in belonging to a group which works closely with priests in extending Christ's kingdom.

But pride is a word that the Legion of Mary demands we use cautiously, and I find myself in a constant struggle, trying to develop qualities of humility and charity.

In the Legion, I am often reminded that God and the Blessed Mother can never be outdone in generosity. I sacrifice time to help others, and see a part of this promise fulfilled in splendid paradox, for, in helping others, I have been helped by them.

It is encouraging for me to know that I am a member of an organization that has had among its membership Alfred Lamb and Edie Quinn whose names have been submitted for canonization as saints.

It is awesome for me to know that, in China, at least a thousand members of the Legion of Mary have been martyred, and that ten thousand more are suffering in prison for their 'crime' of adherence to the Catholic faith.

It is meaningful to know that, in Viet Nam and throughout the world, my fellow Legionaries are making sacrifices, performing heroic deeds, and compiling a long list of accomplishments.
