Bishop Sheen exhorts them His pace hasn't slackened—it's accelerated.

A four day tour of the southern tier last week was a personal whirlwind and he's still averaging more than one major talk a day—whether to a college, a seminary, a parish or, as this week, at a synagogue.

Despite his tempo, he retains the art of giving individuals he meets the sense that he has time to spare to hear their story.

And besides all that is an obvious massive reshaping of diocesan structures to make them more flexible in a society that is itself changing rapidly from day to day.

Somewhere in between all this is a volume of correspondence that is reported to be mountainous, his commitments to write his column and articles, prepare his television talks and like things—last Tuesday, he interviewed for a report for Time magazine.

Here are pictures—a roundup of some of the events he's been in during the past weeks or two.

Sister Rose Perpetua, in wheel chair, Sister Margaret de Sales and staff of St. Joseph's Hospital, Elmira, greet Bishop Sheen as he arrives for visit there.
