Fawn Scheffel Ballet at Nazareth

The improbable story of a girl who is sent back through the ages and into the future via a time machine provides the theme for a three-act ballet to be presented by Fawn Scheffel Tuesday, May 23, at Nazareth College. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m.

"Sally Syntax and the Time Machine" was written and choreographed by Miss Scheffel, who directs the production. Mary Katherine Blum will appear in the title role and Elizabeth Boccecci will dance the part of Professor Phineas N. Phinittee.

Katherine Butler will appear as a Moorish slave during the Dark Ages; Nancy Blum will dance the role of a Medieval minstrel; Catherine Mercury an Indian maiden; and Mary Ellen DiChesere an entertainer on a Mississippi showboat. Other soloists are Peggy Herbeck and Caroline Mercury.

The corps de ballet is composed of children from both public and parochial schools in the Rochester area and Penfield. Tickets are available from participants or at the door the evening of the performance.
