

At Our House®
A Scrap book For Posterity

As a result of a recent column "Letter to Brian," (The Head of the House writing to his next grandson on the day of his birth), we learned from a reader of one of the most fascinating "baby book" ideas ever.

Wouldn't you like to know the state of the world on the day you were born? I would!

The reader, Thomas F. Rowan, tells of such a scrapbook compiled for his son by Mrs. Valerie MacNees, a perceptive friend and co-worker, a book that will become more interesting as time goes on. A microcosm of the world when he entered it, the recipient will find this not the usual ho-hum baby book. For one thing, it's much larger, says Mr. Rowan, more than 20 big pages, encompassing a spectrum as broad as the imagination of the friend who put it together.

Where to Go

Son of "The Travelling McKaigs," Brian will no doubt be interested in the "where to go" stories, what were the most popular vacation spots in his natal summer, including Expo '67. Son and grandson of omnivorous readers, he will learn what were the best sellers, fiction and non-fiction, long before he himself was able to read. Also, what was with it in the fields of popular and classical music, what were the top-selling records, who were the swinging singing groups.

Some Low Notes

Speaking of lows this summer of 1967, this clipping service found a none too rosy picture: war in Vietnam, repercussions of the short-lived war between Israel and Arabs, struggle over civil rights, the poverty program, unemployment, juvenile delinquency, riots in the cities. There were squabbles over gun control, rat control,
