

Amans' Note 50 Years

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Aman of 591 Driving Park Ave. celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on August 26 with a Mass at Holy Rosary Church. The couple was honored at a breakfast at the Holiday Inn on Ridge Road West, and a reception at the Red Men's Club on Lexington Avenue in the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Aman have three children and nine grandchildren. Before retiring Mr. Aman worked for the Peter Dohr Construction Co.

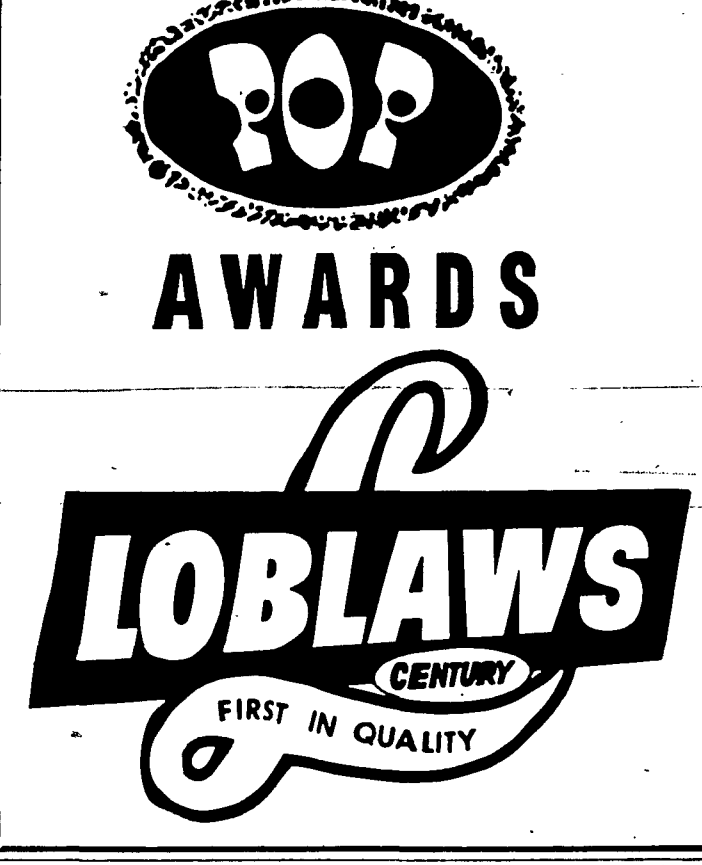

Seminarians In Appalachia

Lancaster, Ky. — (RNS) — One of seven Xaverian seminarians working with other volunteers in fighting poverty in the Appalachian area talks with children during a family visitation. The student is John McDermott who attends the Xaverian Major Seminary in Franklin, Wis. Many volunteers from around the country have been taking part in the Christian Appalachian project in Kentucky — a summer effort to aid the poor, now in its fourth year. The program, whose headquarters are in Lancaster, Ky., has established a model farm and a wood-working shop in the heart of the poverty belt.

SPECIAL TO POP CHAIRMEN:

Now is the time to remind all your label-savers that the end is near...ask for labels in your parish bulletin, church newsletter, etc. The deadline for Game No. 2 is Saturday, September 30. Unless the labels are in the Courier POP Office by that time, they won't be counted for this Game! Last time some chairmen sent their collections on that date but we didn't receive them until the Game was over. As a result, we couldn't give credit for these late turn-ins.

Make sure that your members get their Labels to you in plenty of time. Nothing is so frustrating to a chairman as receiving a package of labels a week after the particular Game is over. So to avoid disappointment, set up your club deadline one week before the POP deadline — that is, on September 23. This gives you a whole week to sort, count, record and deliver your POP identifications to the COURIER POP OFFICE, 35 Scio St.

Here we are almost at the end of leisurely, pleasant vacation time...in just a few days you'll be sending your scholars back to their classrooms and books. We hope you've been piling up some nice fat savings at Columbia Banking. They'll come in mighty handy for all those expenses connected with starting school.

Meanwhile, do take time to enjoy the Labor Day weekend, last of the summer holiday periods. If you're planning a picnic, don't forget to have plenty of Pepsi and Wise Chips on hand, not to mention, of course, Hushers or Maplecrest hot's. A tasty Royal Gelatin salad will also hit the spot. Since there may be a bit of chill in the air, be prepared by bringing along a thermos of hot Chase & Sanborn coffee.

Some people have told us they can't seem to find the new Maplecrest Sea Breeze Hot Sauce. It's true that as yet not all stores carry it, but in those that do, you'll find it in the frozen food section, not on the shelves. For use on hot's and hamburgers, the frozen sauce can merely be heated. To use in cooking, it should first be defrosted.

Here's a recipe we concocted which uses this new sauce. We think you'll like the slightly spicy flavor it gives to the traditional Swiss steak. Served with mashed potatoes, whole green beans and crusty bread or rolls, you won't need a salad to give the meal ring.

- Hot Steak A La Maplecrest.
- 2 lbs. round steak cut rather thin
 - flour, salt, pepper, garlic salt
 - 2 tsp. cooking oil
 - 1 pkg. Maplecrest Sea Breeze Hot Sauce, defrosted
 - 1 medium onion sliced crosswise
 - 1 green pepper sliced in rings
 - 2 fresh tomatoes cut in pieces
 - (1 can of stewed tomatoes—that is with green pepper—may be substituted for the fresh tomatoes and pepper)
 - 2 tsp. sugar (or less, or none if you prefer)
 - 1 cup water approximately
- Pound mixture of flour and seasonings into steak (pounding seems to make the meat more tender than just "dredging" it in flour). Brown prepared steak in oiled spider (frying pan to you young cooks) and spread Hot Sauce over it. Top with onion and pepper slices. Put cut up tomatoes (with juice) around meat and sprinkle evenly with sugar. Add 1 cup water or enough to cover bottom of pan. Cover and simmer about an hour on top of stove. Caution: If your burner flame has a tendency to rise—as some do—be sure to check the meat occasionally so that it won't burn. Serves 4-6 depending on their appetites!

Wary of Viet Voting

By FATHER PATRICK O'CONNOR
Society of St. Columban

Salmon — (NC) — Catholics, like their compatriots of other religions, look forward with anxious interest to the Sept. 3 presidential election, the first under the new constitution.

The anxiety arises partly from the uncertainty about what is largely a new experiment in this besieged and tormented country. The people are worried, too, about the pre-election maneuvers of the military men now in power. These maneuvers could result in an election that might cause an even more calamitous reaction abroad than in South Vietnam itself.

The communists stand to lose by any sort of fair, free election in South Vietnam. That is why they will do their best to hamper it by terrorism.

An unfair election, even if it put anti-communists in power, would be of enormous value for the communists on what they call their "second front," the United States and elsewhere.

Reports of pressure being generated by province and district chiefs, usually military men, in favor of Gen. Nguyen van Thieu, now chief of state, and Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky, now premier may be all true. But they can be all lightly dismissed.

In Saigon and the third and fourth army corps areas literal duplicity has come to light. At least some military men have been given two voting cards each. Apparently one would be deposited with the commanding officer, or someone designated by him, who would then in place of the soldier, supposedly gone on an operation or mission. The other card would be used by the soldier himself where his family lives — and he knows for whom he is expected to vote. The balloting in this case would be secret.

Whatever the methods there would be two votes cast by one soldier — unless this abuse is corrected in time.

Meanwhile, Archbishop Paul Nguyen van Binh of Saigon has forbidden his priests to advocate the cause of any candidate publicly, in church or outside it. He has also declared that he receives visits from all, but the fact that he receives someone does not mean that he supports his candidature.
