Flower-Power Shook By 'Philosophical Rock'

"Philosophical rock" for teenagers? It's the up-and-coming thing, reports the record-industry weekly, Billboard, and when it catches on, the least-hip people in the world be the hippies.

"A splinter group of the love-and-flower generation is beginning to emerge," Billboard has noted. "Its songs advocate participation as opposed to withdrawal and its emphasis is on the joy of living."

The music of this new cult, the weekly reported, is being referred to as "philosophical rock."

"Its lyric content stresses the importance of the simple things in life, and that youngsters should turn on straight. It is

Blackfriars Open 67-68 Season

William T. White, president of Blackfriars, a local theatre group, has announced plans for four productions for the troupe's 67-68 season.

"A Sleep of Prisoners" by Christopher Fry will be presented Oct. 20, 21 and 22 at the First Unitarian Church.

"A Christmas Carol" by Charles Dickens will be staged on Dec. 15, 16 and 17. Theatre facilities for this production have yet to be finalized.

"Thurber Carnival" by James Thurber will be offered on March 29, 30 and 31 at St. John Fisher College.

As its final show the Blackfriars will present "King Lear" by William Shakespeare on May 17, 18 and 19 at the First Unitarian Church.

There will be a special performance of Christopher Fry's "A Sleep of Prisoners" at the Monroe County Penitentiary on October 24.

Children's Theatre Winter Season

Witches, circus dancers, whirling ballet, imprisoned princesses and puppetry to catch the minds of area youngsters are planned for the winter season by the Children's Theatre of the Rochester Performing Arts foundation. The five features tentatively scheduled will run Dec. 30 through March 30, at Theatre East, Monroe County Fairgrounds.

By popular request, the Theatre Arts Academy, under the direction of Norrine Bride, will return Dec. 30 with "Pegora, the Witch." On Feb. 10, a new musical production by Belle Giltelman based on the circus is planned. March 2 will bring a series of story and dance ballets performed by the Merry-Go-Rounders of New York City.

The Peter Piper Players will perform the classic "Rapunzel" on March 16, and on March 30 "Punch and Judy" with the Irwin Sirota Puppets will close the season.

Tickets can be purchased individually for one dollar each. For groups of 25 or more, the price is seventy-five cents each. For reservations, phone 381-2379.

Theatre Group

Blackfriars, local theatre group, have announced a general membership meeting scheduled for Sun. Sept. 17 at 8 p.m. at the group's headquarters at 892 Clinton Ave. S. The meeting will be opened to all persons interested in working on this season's productions.

anti-hippie and anti-drug and is attempting to reach the teenagers who are caught up in the hippie whirl and help them get out.

Cited by Billboard as one of the leaders of the philosophical rock movement is an 18-year-old singer named Chris Wilson, whose appearance at a Greenwich Village nightclub was heralded with comments one is accustomed to reading about singing nuns or singing seminarians rather than about a rock'n roll performer:

"Chris Wilson knows God is alive and very healthy. His songs are of God and His joyous, mournful beauty."

Wilson, according to Billboard's report, "is in total disagreement with the teenagers who dig drugs and who are continually putting down society. He says that the use of LSD for a mind expansion trip is comparable to cutting off your legs so that you can ride around in a wheelchair, and he says that kids have a hard time today but no one has a harder time than parents."

Columbia Records has released two of Wilson's songs, titled "All the Joy" and "Inspiration Road," which feature, according to the music weekly, "optimistic" lyrics.

Sample verse:

"Rain's falling down and hitting the pavement. People are sad—they can't understand it. They can't see all the joy.

"As life wanders on, it picks up new pieces. The heart grows much bigger, and the mind never ceases to see all the joy.

"Life is a state of mind where you can be happy or sad any time. It's up to you, my friend, to stand or crumble within."
