

STUDY CARRELLS provide four individual study areas on one large table in English resource room. The students, each absorbed in her own research, are Teresa Miller, Kathleen Barr, Janice Taddeo and Joyce Des Marais.

Open House at Academy To Show New Techniques

Opening doors to educational innovations will be a feature of Open House at Nazareth Academy on Lake Avenue Sunday, Oct. 29, from 3 to 5 p.m. and on Thursday, Nov. 2, from 1 to 5 p.m.

Resource Centers in English, mathematics, and social studies, as well as a reading laboratory will be open to the public. These rooms have been equipped with instructional media for students doing independent study or developing classroom assignments.

In the English instructional materials room, students watch educational television, listen to records by means of earphones, view film strips or micro-film copies of reading material at study carrels where others may be looking up material in encyclopedias, reading, or studying vocabulary.

In all departments an increased use of audio and visual equipment can be observed. The business department last year installed a dictaphone electronic classroom consisting of a Dictaphone-Time Master with adapter cables forming a network of listening devices.

This is a new concept in teaching, utilizing a radio transmitter which transmits several voices through the classroom—in this case, the voices of teachers or businessmen dictating letters or other material. Each student is equipped with a radio receiver, called a "station," which interprets the signal.

Students listen through a headset plugged into the station. Simultaneously, students in a single classroom may be taking dictation at various rates. Thus a student needing acceleration is able to take lower rates and work up, and the very best students take the higher rates and work up to the highest.

The program arranged for Sunday, Oct. 29 will include a band and a choir performance; demonstration classes in science, mathematics, languages, art, home economics, and business.

RFK Acclaims Aquinas Band

"That's my band," is the way Robert F. Kennedy put it last Sunday afternoon in Toronto when he heard the announcement that the Aquinas Institute Marching Band of Rochester would provide the halftime entertainment at a Canadian Football League game between the Toronto Argonauts and the Ottawa Rough Riders.

Senator and Mrs. Kennedy arrived in Toronto on Friday afternoon for a private weekend visit as guest of Toronto Telegram publisher John Bassett. Friday evening the Kennedys attended a party for 165 guests at the Royal York's Roof Garden Saturday evening they went to a hockey game at Maple Leaf Gardens and Sunday, before leaving for the U.S., the Democratic Senator from New York and his wife Ethel took in the Ottawa-Argos football game.

During the halftime show Kennedy remarked to the spectators and television cameramen that he was happy to have a band from New York State in Toronto to coincide with his visit there. He said he knew Aquinas Institute well since he visited there in 1964 to speak to the student body.

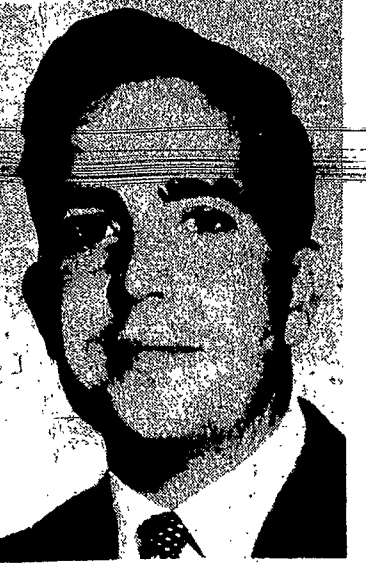

The Senator and Mrs. Kennedy watched the fifteen minute band show and warmly applauded the performance. Later he waved greetings to the 92 boys in the band who were seated for the game on the sidelines.

A crowd of 27,423 watched the Ottawa and Toronto teams battle to a 28-28 tie.

All Schools In Syria Secularized

Damascus — (RNS) — "The era of missionary work in Syria has ended for good," Minister of Education Sulayman al-Khush said in a statement announcing the confiscation of all private, largely church-sponsored, schools.

Although the remarks were directed against Christian educational activity, observers believe that his announcement indicates a campaign against all religious education, including that of Islam, Syria's predominant religion and a source of continuing resistance to many policies of the Socialist government.

He said schools were confiscated because of their refusal to follow an official curriculum which was made mandatory in a decree issued on Sept. 9. The former owners of the schools will be financially reimbursed, he added.

Religious tension in Syria during the past year has been based chiefly on mutual opposition between the leftist government of the Baath Party and the largely conservative leadership of Islam. It has been complicated further by the uneasy and sometimes openly hostile relations between Syria and two monarchist Arab nations, Jordan and Saudi Arabia. These tensions, smoothed over temporarily by the Arab-Israeli war when Arab nations reached a temporary and partial unity against Israel, may now be re-emerging, observers believe.

Renewal Not Mere Change

Notre Dame — (RNS) — The name of the National Association for Pastoral Renewal (NAPR) is "a euphemism," James F. Andrews, managing editor of Ave Maria magazine, charged in a signed editorial.

The editorial, carried in the Sept. 23 issue of the weekly Catholic magazine, published here, said that the NAPR was formed "primarily to lobby for a change" in the Catholic law on clerical celibacy.

Mr. Andrews referred to a three-day symposium on celibacy sponsored by the association on the Notre Dame campus and said that "it was clear that the majority of those present had already made up their minds on the question."

All area schools' faculty members will receive written invitations to attend this special session. This will include exhibits, demonstrations and a coffee break.

A highlight of the program will be an open rally in the school hall at 8:15 Wed., Nov. 1. An open invitation is extended to the public to come and hear the pros and cons of the New Constitution. The panel discussing the issue will include Dr. Ken O'Loane and delegates who have worked on this writing of the Constitution.
