

A New Church at St. Salomé's

Plans to replace the fire-damaged, 56-year-old St. Salomé's Church building at 4282 Culver Rd., Irondequoit, were announced this week by Father Walter E. Fleming, pastor.

The proposed building will seat 600 persons, nearly double the seats in the small, now closed Spanish-style structure which underwent considerable damage from a lightning-started fire last June. Flames burned the sanctuary walls, floor and basement.

Since then parishioners have been attending one of seven Sunday Masses in an often over-

Layman at Catholic U.

Washington — (RNS) — The Catholic University of America, for the first time in its history, has named a layman, Dr. C. Joseph Nuesse, to its No. 2 administrative post.

Father John P. Whalen, new acting rector, has appointed Dr. Nuesse as acting executive vice-rector for a one-year term concurrent with Father Whalen's sociology department.

Father Whalen said Dr. Nuesse was selected because of his "unique qualifications of experience in various Catholic University faculty and administrative posts for over 20 years and broad academic outlook."

He also pointed out that, as acting executive vice-rector, Dr. Nuesse will be the central coordinator of the work of the educational and management consultants who will begin their investigations on campus Nov. 8.

New Stamps On Fatima

Vatican City — (NC) — The Vatican is issuing two new series of stamps on Oct. 13, one commemorating the 50th anniversary of the apparitions at Fatima and the other in honor of the third World Congress of the Lay Apostolate, which opens in Rome Oct. 11.

The Fatima series will have three stamps, one showing a marble group statue of the three shepherd children, another showing an over-all view of the sanctuary, and the third depicting Pope Paul praying at Fatima during his pilgrimage of May 13, 1967.

The lay apostolate congress series will consist of two stamps, both with the same subject, the emblem of the congress, a globe surrounded by representatives of all peoples with a cross.

crowded basement of the parochial school.

Three-year pledges toward costs of the new building will be sought from parishioners in a campaign to be conducted from Dec. 3 to 10. Minimum goal is $250,000.

Proposed design for the new edifice will be described to parishioners at 8 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 16, in the school hall by Edward J. Ribson of the firm of Ribson and Roberts, architects, 844 University Ave. Ground-breaking is slated in the spring.

Father Fleming noted that overall plans include construction of a new rectory adjoining the southern portion of the proposed church, but added that the decision on building the rectory at the same time as the church will depend on results of the pledge campaign.

More than 150 volunteer women parishioners will conduct a house-to-house census of Catholics within the boundaries of the parish on Sat. and Sun. Nov. 11 and 12.

St. Salomé's parish was founded in 1925, with Father Edward J. Eschrich, now pastor emeritus, as first pastor. Father Eschrich served for 41 years until failing health brought his retirement in June, 1966. He opened in 1921 with an enrollment of 90 children. Present enrollment is 340. Sister Mary Josephine is principal. The present church was constructed in 1911.

Chapel Gets Papal Gift

London — (RNS) — Pope Paul VI has made a personal gift of $5,000 towards the cost of St. George's Chapel, an interdenominational center, now being built under London Airport, the fund organizers disclosed here.

The chapel will serve as a place of worship of members of the Church of England, the Roman Catholic Church and the Free Churches. It is expected to be completed by June next year at an estimated cost of $252,000 to $280,000, of which more than two-thirds has now been received.

He spoke at a seminar for Catholic laymen, whom he warned against an "unreal con-

Instant News Reporting Riles Irish Churchmen

Rosses Point, Sligo — (RNS) — The Roman Catholic Church in Ireland must adopt a more positive attitude to modern media of communications if it hopes to fill the needs of its people, a theologian said here.

Father Patrick J. Brophy, professor of dogmatic theology at Carlow Catholic Theological Seminary, said that Ireland has been undergoing an educational revolution. Amid this revolution, he said, understanding of religion remains at a level adequate for a peasant culture but unfit for modern Christians.

He added that he was well acquainted with the dedicated and highly competent men who were working for press, radio and television in Ireland.

servatism" which might withdraw from modern society and leave it without the Gospel.

"At the present time," said Father Brophy, "it appears that the only widely publicized comments that our bishops have to make about Irish television are sharply critical ones and there is a real risk here that the Church, in its governing body, will seem, or appear to be, hostile to the kind of society in which television plays an actively formative part."

He added that he was well acquainted with the dedicated and highly competent men who were working for press, radio and television in Ireland.
