

New Dimensions at Brockport

There are new dimensions concerning the College of Arts and Science at Brockport. There are new dimensions in acreage, buildings, services, departments, curriculums, major, minors, faculty and student body.

Still another new dimension is the College's rapidly growing area of continuing education which is directed by Dr. Richard D. Elton.

Dr. Elton stated that the Continuing Education program is basically a projection of the college resources to those persons not regularly enrolled as students on the campus at Brockport. "While programs are developed to meet varying needs," he continued, "all have grown out of the basic philosophy that a State University College should serve all of the people."

Programs are designed to help people learn to do their jobs better, to lead more useful lives, to challenge the active mind, to employ their leisure time more wisely, to become better citizens and to assist in the attainment of degrees. Special efforts are being made to develop a broad publication service program. Projects have been undertaken with health and labor groups, governmental agencies and business organizations.

Over 400 adults have accepted the College's cordial and very special invitation to men and women living within driving distance of the Brockport Campus to avail themselves of the many learning opportunities which Continuing Education offered last semester.

This invitation was and is particularly extended to adults who are interested in the quality and challenge of college level instruction. Today, almost everyone benefits from additional learning whether they read in a library, attend cultural programs, study through correspondence courses, view a course through University of the Air, or attend a college class. Dr. Elton stated that there are many opportunities provided for continuing education by various agencies and institutions, but he continued, "The Office of Continuing Education at Brockport is especially designed for individuals who simply have the desire for more learning." It's for those "who realize there is no finish line for education," he added.

New courses start the last week in January and information can be obtained by calling 395-2345 or by writing the Office of Continuing Education.

CARE in Liberia

In the isolated Sasstown area of Liberia, villagers paid in CARE food and working with CARE tools are building a 60-mile road that will be their first link with the country's main highway, opening the way to new markets for their crops and the introduction of new industries.

According to Msgr. Thompson's report, 432 men and women from the archdiocese entered seminaries and religious novitiates in 1967, 107 fewer than the 539 recorded in 1966, and

Postal Machines To Be Changed

Nearly 10,000 postage vending machines, including those at the Rochester Post Office, will be converted over the next three months to reflect the new postage rates. Postmaster John G. Bittner said today.

New postage rates went into effect Jan. 7. Bittner noted. The new rates raise first-class postage to 6 cents an ounce, air mail to 10 cents an ounce, and postal cards to 5 cents.

The job of converting the thousands of vending machines found in Post Office lobbies from coast to coast is so massive that it will take several months to complete, the postmaster said.

Most of the machines now provide 5-cent and 4-cent stamps for a nickel, quarter or dime. After the conversion, the machines will provide 5-cent and 6-cent stamps. A new model will offer 1-cent, 5-cent and 6-cent stamps.

The postmaster said that the vending machines located in the lobbies of post offices are not to be confused with commercial stamp vending devices found in many stores. Such commercial machines provide a margin of profit and are not controlled by the Post Office Department, he said.
