The U.S. government, in pi moting birth control program in other countries, is storing a international trouble for America on the grand scale.""T backlash, when-it comes - as inevitably will --- is going give Uncle Sam one of the b gest public-relations black ey in the nation's history.---

The then President Dwight Eisenhower was perfectly rig when he said that this is area that government ought stay out of; and I am astound that a politician as astute President B. Johnson shoul fail to realize this fact.

The size of a family is moral decision to be made, the sight of God, by a husban and wife, and not by any publ official - above all not bureaucrats in some other cou try who can be suspected, as certain'y are going to be accu ed, of acting out of sinister m tives.

The accusations, in fact, ready are beginning. As t columnist Carl T. Rowan h disclosed (although he himse favors birth control on -a ma sive scale) newspapers in B zil have been charging, in t headlines, that there is a ca paign to halt or reverse t population growth of that cou try, which has vast and ri areas in which there are people.

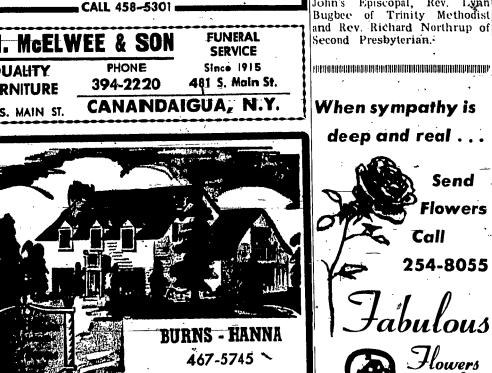

In Latin America, Row wrote, there is "a clear bell that the U.S. wants to preve Latinos from achieving t great a numerical advanta over the Norte-Americanos Rowan added:

"And there is a special e ment of nationalism. As t biggest, most populous count in this continent. Brazil war to grow, grow, grow - to esta lish itself as one of the maj powers of the world. Its lea ers feel that population is a k ingredient of greatness."

Just at this juncture, the U Agency for International L elopment (AID) has annour ed that it is giving $1.3 million to India to buy contracepti pills for 100,000 women for months, and to provide 1 million contraceptive devic for Indian men. And this latt is described by AID admin trator William S. Gaud as "t initial inventory in a large, co tinuing program of commerc distribution" of such devic "throughout India."

How long does anybody su pose it will take for millio upon millions of Indians to I gin to ask themselves, suspi ously, why the United States. so anxious to reduce the nur ber of Indians on earth?

Such questions will spread around the world, because A also is proposing to give $2 million to the Internation Planned Parenthood Feder tion for anti-birth projects various underdeveloped nation Only a person whose visi stops at the end of his nose c fail to see that this is going raise dark suspicions even where concerning American n
