Kingston Bishop Pleads for Poor

Kingston, Jamaica (NC)—Kingston Archbishop John J. McEleneey, S.J., appealed here for increased aid to the underprivileged of the world in a sermon preached at the opening of Human Rights Year.

The archbishop, born in Woburn, Mass., emphasized that "we should live lives of faith marked by the generosity of Christ and His perfect charity. . . . It should never happen that we have plenty while others are underprivileged and lack many of the elementary human needs."

DEADLINE FOR NEWS MONDAY NOON FRIDAY DELIVERY

Work all day Can't leave the children Wouldn't get in Probably don't

there's no reason in the world why you can't go to college.

If you can get a TV set, you can get to college. Beginning January 27, you can attend college classes in your living room, every Saturday and the University of the Air.

Whoever you are, whatever you do, the University of the Air offers you a chance to get more education. The State University of New York and The City University of New York are sponsoring a full day of college courses on television on Saturdays, and selected weekdays. You can be any of these courses for credit or you can follow your favorite for their pleasure.

Perhaps today, more than ever before, there are important reasons for getting a college education: advancement in your work, a social career, or simply to keep up with the world around you. But if you're a housewife, hold down a full-time job, or just can't get to college regularly, college has probably been out of the question until now.

The University of the Air makes it easier for you to start college, or to continue where you left off. If you enroll for credit, you tune in the courses you have selected, complete the assignments at home, and take the exams on your local campus.

For more information about what courses you can take and how to get started, get in touch with your local University of the Air campus today. Registration for credit closes Feb. 27.

'491' Film Rated 'C'

New York (NC)—The National Catholic Office for Motion Pictures said the Swedish-made movie "491" was evaluated in its condemned (Class C) category because of "sadism, violence, vandalism and sexual perversity" tied in with a "spurious" theme.

The NCMP listed the following objection against the Janus Films/Peppercorn Wormer production: "This spurious film uses a rehabilitation program for incorrigible boys as an excuse for a parade of successive acts of sadism, violence, vandalism and sexual perversity."

Charity Key to Unity

Vatican City (NC)—Charity is the key to the Christian unity movement, Pope Paul VI told thousands gathered at his weekly general audience.

Linking his comments with the recent observance of the Church Unity Octave, in which Catholics pray for the recon position of the Church of Christ, the Pope said: "This ecumenical movement has been for us very strong—and we hope—very beneficial stimulus to charity, the queen of the entire Christian moral system, the virtue which represents the pastoral mission to the entire Church and to all mankind."

The Pope noted that charity is "necessary, primary—and essential to start along the right path toward the solution of this always complex and difficult ecumenical question." He also noted that "words come easily in support of the ecumenical movement, but added that his magnum exercise of charity is needed.

"How much overcoming of acquired inner attitudes which are regarded as right, how much humility, how much generosity, how much chastening of one's own selfishness, how much renunciation of one's own prestige is demanded by this exercise. We say this for ourself, we say this for all, pastors and faithful, that we have at heart the drawing closer of these separated brothers to whom we last gave the title of beloved."

The Pope concluded asking "Charity, charity, is this perhaps your hour? Our beloved sons, let us all endeavor to be worthy of paying the way to it. Let us pray, love and work so that charity may be in our hearts and work the wonder of its own triumph."

Father Deckman

Visiting Roches

Maryknoll Father Graham McDonnell sent the Courier the following story and pictures he took in LaPaz, Bolivia, during a visit to Rochester's Father Peter Deckman.

"You're just in time," said Father Peter Deckman, as I arrived at the door of the parish dispensary, completely out of breath after climbing up the hill.

"You're the only mission in the world that works on a degree angle" I answered, but Pete was too excited for pleasantries.

"We just had a set of trip lets," he burst out, "you can take pictures of them when we go to baptize them." We waited for the doctor of the parish clinic to finish his work for the day.

I had just met Pete that morning at the Maryknoll Center in La Paz. He had invited me up, and I mean up, for his parish is at least 1,000 feet higher than the Center House—a u for dinner. As we waited for the doctor, Pete filled me in on the triplets. They were girls born the day before in the wilderness of the Atitlapano, another 500 feet above the parish, a few kilometers out from the edge of La Paz.

Our discussion was cut short with the appearance of Dr. Ahmad Abdallah, the doctor employed by the parish in it
