14 Priests Assign... Father T... Courier -

Father Richard Tormey, who served his journalistic apprenticeship with the Courier-Journal earlier in his career, will return to take over the editor's reins Bishop Sheen announced this week.
Father Tormey, who has served as chaplain for Cornell University's Newman Apostolate since 1960, was associate editor of the Courier-Journal from 1947 to 1950.
Father Tormey, in returning to the Courier-Journal, this time as editor, brings a wealth of experience in the communication media with him.
In addition to his newspaper experience, he directed religious programming in radio and TV for the diocese for more than a decade. He has also filled three years as a Navy chaplain and nine years as chaplain at Our Lady of Mercy High School as well as assistant pastor at two parishes.
His appointment was one of fourteen affecting priests of the Rochester diocese this week. The others include three pastoral appointments and one to fill Father Tormey's place as Cornell. Named by Bishop Sheen to new posts were:
MONSIGNOR JOSEPH J. SULLIVAN as pastor of Holy Family Church in Auburn, the assistant pastor of St. Cecilia's Church in Irondequoit, since last September. Most of his priestly career was spent in the seminaries of St. Andrew's and St. Bernard's, however, where he taught English and Homilies for 19 years.
FATHER ROBERT G. SMITH as chaplain of the Newman Apostolate, Cornell University in Ithaca. Father Smith's 11 years in the priesthood have included seven years as professor of music at St. Bernard's.
