Dear Friends,
We're happy to announce that at long last we're sending you the new Label Report Forms for POP Game No. 3. Within a few days you should be receiving these via Uncle Sam's Mercurys. Be sure to note the changes in labels required for certain products. Your observance of these changes will be greatly appreciated.

Time is really fleeting. Actually, only 37 days remain in this Game. This means that you have just a little over a month to get those labels, lids and bottle caps to your chairman for counting and delivery to our POP Office. So if you have some stashed away, gather them up and hurry to your collection depot. But don't, we repeat, don't, discontinue your efforts. Every ingredient in a meal should be checked for its possible POP value. Don't dispose of any label which represents CASH. Get in the habit of POP Shopping, for you, the individual member, can determine the difference between POP Dollars and POP Pennies for your club's treasury. Which shall it be?

Success for both you and your group can also be a "Back of the Fence" recipe, submitted to the Red Star Yeast Company for a possible $25.00 prize, and to us for 200 bonus points. Here's all you do: Mail your favorite Yeast Recipe to: Recipes, Box 710, Minneapolis, Minn. 55440, along with 3 empty Red Star Yeast envelopes. Include your name and address. Then mail us a copy too. Even if you personally don't win a prize, at least you'll "win" 200 extra points for your POP organization.

And speaking of recipes, so many "originals" have been coming to us lately that we're a bit overwhelmed. If yours don't appear immediately, please be patient. We hope to print all of them eventually.

From Mrs. Jean Kuchman, POP Chairman for St. Augustine's Mothers Club, we received three! This time we're bringing you just one of these with the others reserved for a later date. Mrs. Kuchman assured us that the unusual flavor combination was very pleasant—in fact, the resulting taste, she said, was very similar to that of chocolate candies with liquid cherry centers. There's no doubt your kiddies will love this tempting

Aquinas Alumni To Meet Monday

By Whit Johnson

What is the future of Aquinas Institute? Will the stadium be sold? Are there building plans on the drawing board? Are the Basilians leaving Aquinas? Are laymen taking control of the school?

These and dozens like them are the questions being asked by hundreds of Aquinas alumni. The answers may be available next Monday at 8 p.m. in the Aquinas Auditorium.

The occasion will be the organizational meeting of the newly formed Aquinas Alumni Association, Inc.

During the 60-year history of Aquinas (which includes its predecessors, Cathedral and Rochester Catholic High) its alumni have been noted for their close association with the school. Every five years most classes hold reunions which attract a substantial portion of that year's graduates. Sporting events and other school functions have been well attended by alumni. Sons and grandsons of Aquinas alumni continue to swell the ranks of those seeking entrance to the freshman class.

Still, many graduates continued to ask for a formal association where they might have an opportunity to meet former classmates and at the same time keep abreast with developments at the school. For two years class officers and other interested alumni have discussed plans for an alumni association. Last Monday the organization became a reality. Supreme Court Justice Daniel E. Macken approved the certificate of incorporation of the Aquinas Alumni Association. The certificate was filed with Secretary of State John P. Lomenzo.

According to Father Cyril F. Carter, C.S.B., alumni moderator, the Aquinas Alumni Association is one of the few legally incorporated high school graduate organizations.

Incorporators include Aquinas alumni Milo I. Tomanovich, an attorney and graduate of the class of 1955; City Court Judge Arthur B. Curran, '43; attorney John R. Parrinello, '56; Aquinas teacher John H. Lyng, '54; engineer John L. Donovan, '47; and caterer Alfred A. Joseph, '43.

Tomanovich reports that every effort has been made to contact alumni. However, due to lack of information regarding latest addresses, he requests that alumni contact one another regarding date, time and place of the meeting. In Saigon had been under siege.
