

Bishop Boudreaux:

'What the World Needs Now...'

New Iberia, La. — (NC) — Recent incidents of violence in the United States emphasize that "we have to change, to be as God wants us to be, to love as God wants us to love."

Auxiliary Bishop Warren L. Boudreaux of Lafayette told a rally here of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Bishop Boudreaux, pastor of St. Peter's parish here and a past chairman of the city's human relations council, was principal speaker at a rally observing the 25th anniversary of the "New Iberia" chapter of the NAACP.

Referring briefly to the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, Bishop Boudreaux said he believed that as the thousands paid their last respects they were also indicating their resolution that such senseless violence must stop.

"We must return to God's principles, to the spirit of love," Bishop Boudreaux said. "The war in Vietnam, the conflict between Israel and her Arab neighbors—these are taking place because we do not love enough. We must show it—there must be deeds to back up words. Parents, you must teach your children to love." Praising the record of the NAACP.

Bishop Boudreaux said that "historians will prove no group has done more lasting good for the Negro race than the NAACP. Their basic heart and spirit is one of love. Other organizations talk of non-violence, the NAACP practices it. It has faith in our country and I know your organization will continue to challenge the American people to fulfill their ideals."

"More and more white citizens are joining hands with you to do what is right," Bishop Boudreaux pointed out. "If we love together, there is hope for this country, in spite of our past sins."

Communists Question UNICEF Program

United Nations, N.Y. — (RNS) — The efficiency of UNICEF aid to children of South Vietnam was questioned by Poland and the Soviet Union during a program review by the Children's Fund executive board.

Boguslaw Kozusznik of Poland expressed "concern" that UNICEF assistance to the children of South Vietnam might not be reaching them. He quoted Sen. Edward M. Kennedy on alleged "corruption" in South Vietnam, without specifically saying that this involved UNICEF aid.

He urged that the Red Cross be used as a means of reaching children in the area controlled by the Saigon government, adding that North Vietnam also should receive UNICEF shipments.

North Vietnam is not a U.N. member. However, UNICEF Executive Director Henry R. Labouisse informed the board that he had "sounded out" Hanoi on the possibility of UNICEF aid.

The Soviet Union later criticized Mr. Labouisse for "not going beyond" this exploratory attempt. Its delegate supported the Polish view that the International Red Cross should be in charge of UNICEF distribution in all of Vietnam.

The Negro superintendent of a predominantly white district is the Rev. James C. Peters, 43, of Greensboro, N.C.

A civil rights activist in Mississippi, he moved to North Carolina in 1965 to become pastor of St. Matthews Methodist church at Greensboro. He was chairman of the Mayor's Human Relations Commission and president of the integrated 250-member Ministerial Alliance.

Southern Presbyterians Need More Pastors

Montreat, N.C. — (RNS) — The Presbyterian Church U.S. (Southern) has only 2,681 pastors to serve 4,002 congregations, according to a report to the General Assembly here.

It was reported that 72.4 per cent of the vacant pulpits "are in churches of from 3 to 99 members." Delegates recommended that churches having less than 250 members be merged with others. They also recommended that laymen be trained for preaching and pastoral duties.

Regional governing bodies were asked to insure that full-time ministers be paid at least $6,000 annually, and be provided living quarters, car allowance, insurance and other benefits.

Order Necessary To Progress, Nuns Told

Portland, Me. — (RNS) — The Apostolic Delegate to the United States has cautioned North American nuns that the hierarchy alone can give "authenticity and unity" to their apostolate.

Archbishop Luigi Raimondi told delegates to the first International Conference of Councils and Senates of Women Religious that "Order is always an indispensable factor in progress, particularly so when the apostolate of the Church is concerned."

"Your apostolic action," he added, "will be useful, appreciated and effective in the measure in which you grow in perfection and sanctity, and follow the guidelines and forms established for progress."

The meeting was attended by some 400 Sisters and diocesan vicars for religious from 41 states and seven provinces of Canada.

Vatican Assistant Named To Boston See

He is Msgr. Daniel A. Cronin, 40, of Cambridge, Mass., who has been in the Vatican service since November 1957.

Bishop-designate Cronin served in the apostolic internunciature in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia and as an assistant to the Vatican Secretary of State.

High Court Invalidates Welfare Rule

Washington — (NC) — The U.S. Supreme Court has struck down as a "transparent fiction" the Alabama's "substitute father" or "man in the house" welfare rule because it conflicts with federal law.

The unanimous decision, rendered on the last day of the Court's 1967-68 term (June 17), will also invalidate similar rules in 18 other states and the District of Columbia.

Under the rule — which renders children ineligible for Aid to Families of Dependent Children (AFDC) if their mother maintains a liaison with any man — some 12,000 children were stricken from Alabama's welfare rolls in four years.

The American Civil Liberties Union has estimated that a half-million other children have been affected by the rules in other states. These states are: Arkansas, Arizona, Connecticut, Indiana, Louisiana, Maine, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, New Hampshire, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Texas, Tennessee, Vermont and Virginia.

Under the AFDC program — which is jointly administered and funded by federal and state governments — aid is given to children who lack support because of the death, disability or absence of a parent.

Under the "man in the house rule" Alabama and the other states assumed that if the mother established and maintained a relationship with a man — even if he was not the father of any children — he became a "substitute father."

He was therefore presumed to be responsible for the support of the children, even if he had no legal obligation. The children were therefore cut off, even if they were otherwise needy and eligible, and even if there was no support given by the "substitute father."

Poor Campaign Tactical Error: Father Groppi

Milwaukee — (NC) — Back in Milwaukee after two weeks at Resurrection City in Washington, Father James E. Groppi called the Washington tent encampment of the Poor People's Campaign a "tactical error."

The major confrontation for the participants, he said, has not been with the social structures which they need to change but rather "with mother nature... mud, food and survival."

The civil rights leader said it would have been better to house participants in the Poor People's Campaign within the black community of Washington rather than "isolating" them, separated by parks, monuments and government buildings from Washington residents.

Father Groppi's disillusionment with the Poor People's Campaign to date has not caused him to withdraw support, however. He was heading back to Resurrection City after two days here arranging for another busload of supporters from the NAACP Youth Council which he advises to join those already at the encampment.

He said that some 80 members of the Youth Council have been at Resurrection City since shortly after its opening. The young people have had a great deal of experience in civil rights demonstrations in Milwaukee, he said, and they have been disappointed at the lack of "dramatic confrontations" in Washington.

We mean it: Pepsi-Cola tastes better cold than other soft drinks taste at the same temperature. We designed Pepsi that way. We created a special taste that comes alive in the cold. New York — (RNS) — U.S. aid efforts in Vietnam are "insignificant when compared to the problems there and the amount of money and effort being devoted to military action," American priest said here.

Father Robert J. Charlebois, of Gary, Ind., has been the director of Catholic Relief Services in South Vietnam for the past year. He is in New York for consultation with U.S. officials.

He said that reductions in American foreign aid appropriations can seriously damage hope for a kind of stability or peace in Vietnam.

He added that many Vietnamese are worrying that American aid will be withdrawn if and when U.S. military action ends in Vietnam.

He added that the work of Catholic Relief Services in Vietnam will be needed for the foreseeable future.
